Washington—(AP)—The supreme court, at the request of the government, ordered the third circuit court of appeals at Philadelphia today to show cause why it should not permit the national labor relations board to recall its order against the Republic Steel corporation.

After the circuit court had refused last Friday to authorize withdrawal of the litigation, Solicitor General Robert H. Jackson and Charles Fahy, general counsel of the labor board, asked the supreme court for a writ of mandamus to compel the desired action.

Withdrawal of the order, directing the corporation to reinstate 5,000 workers who struck last summer, was decided upon after the supreme court on April 25 had condemned procedure followed by the secretary of agriculture in reducing charges authorized at the Kansas City stockyards.

Republic Steel contended the order against it was issued without permitting arguments in reply. It contended this was not proper procedure.

Washington—(AP)—The supreme court ruled today that working men, who strike as a result of an unfair labor practice by their employers, are entitled to protection of the national labor relations act.

This decision was given in upholding an order by the national labor relations board directing the Mackay Radio and Telegraph company to reinstate five employees who had gone on strike in San Francisco.

Justice Roberts, who delivered the decision, asserted that the strikers remained employees under the labor act "and were protected against the unfair labor practices denounced by it."

Roberts announced no dissent. Justices Cardozo and Reed did not participate.

The court reversed an opinion by the ninth circuit court of appeals refusing to approve reinstatement of the five men on the ground that they had severed their employment by striking.

Roberts said the board's findings as to discrimination were "supported by evidence."

Roberts continued:

"The board found, and we cannot say that its finding is unsupported, that in taking back six of eleven men and excluding five, who were active union men, the respondent discriminated against the latter on account of their union activities and that the exclusion given that they did not apply until after the quota was full was an afterthought and not the true reason for the discrimination against them."

Roberts further said the board's order did not violate the fifth amendment to the constitution.

Indiana Law Invalid

The supreme court held invalid Indiana's effort to apply its 1933 gross income tax to receipts obtained from sales made outside the state.

In a decision delivered by Justice Roberts, the tribunal also held that the state could apply the levy to interest received from obligations issued by state municipalities.

State officials said before the decision that the public ruling would determine whether they could collect $1,000,000 of accrued taxes as well as $3,000,000 annually hereafter from companies engaged in interstate commerce.

The opinion was on litigation filed by the J. D. Adams Manufacturing company of Indianapolis.

The court agreed to review litigation brought by 18 private utilities challenging constitutionality of the government's Tennessee Valley Authority power program.

Oshkosh G. O. P. Convention Forecasts Bitter Battles In Party Before Election

BY JOHN W. WYNGAARD
Staff Correspondent

Oshkosh—Republicans of Wisconsin, young and old, gave a preview of the 1938 party convention and campaign in sessions here over the weekend.

Rivalry for places on the ticket, hazy thinking on party policy, in decision, factionalism, personal quarrels and an indifferent campaign organization, these could be anticipated for the party during the forthcoming campaign on the basis of evidence given at meetings of the Young Republican state organization and the senior state voluntary campaign committee Saturday.

Through it all, however, ran a rising note of dissatisfaction from rank and file elements, an insurgency which will probably demand before many more weeks a complete reversal of state party aims and policies.

Here are the highlights of the meetings of the regulars and the junior club delegates:

(1) Counsel from Colonel Frank Knox of Chicago, headliner for the Young Republican meeting, that the G. O. P. must become the party of the small business man if it hopes to salvage some congressional seats this fall and to make a serious bid for power in 1940.

(2) Repeated demands from both senior and junior G. O. P. spokesmen for an open party primary in Wisconsin this year, and a challenge from the youngsters to the party convention to honor those demands.

(3) Election of Richard McMillin of Fond du Lac, vice chairman of the young organization, as president over the opposition of upper Fox river valley delegates who were booming Assemblyman Mark Catlin of Outagamie county.

(4) Postponement of the anticipated shakeup in the Republican voluntary committee set-up and the resignation of Chairman Edward J. Samp. It was explained that internal developments made it imperative for Samp to retain campaign

5 Persons Die in Auto Accidents

By the Associated Press

Five persons were killed in traffic accidents in Wisconsin and northern Michigan over the weekend. The dead:

Mrs. Roy Osterstrom, 40 Bayfield; Frances Galicia, 21, Oshkosh; Wilfred Kamin, 3, Menominee, Mich.; Jack W. Shafer, 70, Milwaukee; Edward S. Thompson, Waukegan.

Mrs. Osterstrom, wife of the president of the North Wisconsin Power company at Bayfield, was killed last night in a head-on automobile crash south of Marengo in which five other persons were injured.

Miss Galicia died in a Columbus, Wis., hospital today of injuries suffered in a crash on Highway 151 Saturday night. Edwin Hafemann, 44, also of Oshkosh, injured in the same accident, was reported in critical condition in a Madison hospital.

Two Prisoners in Escape From Jail

Manslaughter Suspect Still At Large; Companion
Is Recaptured

Wisconsin Rapids—(AP)—Authorities of central Wisconsin communities were warned today to search for Jevons Zalinsky, 32, of Des Moines, Iowa, who, with a companion, saved his way out of the Wood county jail last night.

Zalinsky was being held on a charge of first degree manslaughter as the driver of a car in an accident May 9, in which three persons were killed.

Undersheriff Cliff Bluet said Zalinsky and another prisoner, Stewart Fayton, saved two bars from the jail, manufactured a bedsheet rope, and escaped about 1 o'clock a. m.

An alarm was sounded by Victor Meinberg, who saw the men throwing grips from the window.

Deputies recaptured Fayton, who is facing a preliminary hearing on a burglary charge.

Zalinsky ran down an alley and evaded capture. Officers believe he may have boarded a train of the nearby Green Bay and Western railroad.

Undersheriff Bluet said deputies who visited the scene of the fatal crash today found a 38 caliber revolver and a box of shells in the woods opposite the spot where Zalinsky's machine had halted after the accident.

Chippewa Falls Man Wounded by Robbers

Chippewa Falls, Wis.—(AP)—Carl C. Johnson, 57, operator of a grocery, was shot and critically wounded last night by two youths who escaped with part of the day's receipts.

Johnson, alone in the store, thought the youths were joking when they announced "this is a holdup." As he reached for a buzzer connected with his home near door, two shots were fired, both striking Johnson.

An emergency operation was performed at St. Joseph's hospital, where Johnson's condition was termed critical by hospital attaches. Police started search for the youths.

Suchow Fall Is Imminent, Japanese Say

Thousands Trapped in Area Around Rail
Junction City

Shanghai—(AP)—Japanese dispatches declared today that Suchow had been completely surrounded and Japanese troops were closing in from all sides on thousands of Chinese trapped in the area around the vital central China rail junction city.

The Japanese asserted it would be only a matter of hours before they actually assault the strategic city for which they have been fighting for months.

(Communications issued by Japan's North China army headquarters at Peiping declared that China's defense of the Lunghai railway was turning into a rout with all lines collapsed and chaos observable on all fronts.

Troops Trapped

(An army spokesman said that although the fall of Suchow was imminent this would be of less importance than the fate of some 80 Chinese divisions—400,000 to 800,000 men—he said were trapped along the Lunghai between Sinanien, east of Suchow, and Lanfeng, to the west.

(He declared the Japanese had failed to capitalize on the victory of which they boasted at Taierichwang last month. He said this far there were no indications of effective Chinese counterattacks which might endanger Japanese units from the rear.)

Encirclement of Suchow was accomplished, the Japanese said, by closing the last gap to the west, just below the Lunghai railway near Tangshan. This railroad town is approximately 50 miles west of Suchow.

Troops Advancing

Troops fighting toward the railway from the north and south converged near Tangshan, the Japanese reported, and then fought their way eastward along the railway to Hwangkow, only 30 miles from Suchow.

The Japanese said troops which yesterday cut the Lunghai line near Sinanien, in Kiangsu province 67 miles east of Suchow, were pushing rapidly westward toward the junction city.

Pishien, long besieged city 25 miles northwest of Suchow, was

Sen. LaFollette Raps Rail Wage Cut Plan

Washington—(AP)—Senator LaFollette (D-Wis.) attacked in the senate today the proposal of American railroads to reduce the wages of their 925,000 employees, by 15 percent on July 1.

In my judgment the proposal is not justified," he said.

The Wisconsin senator asserted that rail wages, "contrary to the popular supposition," are not high. Neither, he said, can the railroads be saved by wage cuts or increases in rates "so long as they operate under their outmoded financial structure."

"The primary difficulty of the railroads results from their practice of floating more bonds and then failing to retire those bonds," he added.

LaFollette said the only solution of the railroad problem was reorganization to whittle down debt burdens.

Autogiro on Trial Hop With Mail in Chicago

Chicago—(AP)—Eight minutes after taking off from the municipal airport, Pilot Johnny Miller landed his wingless autogiro on the roof of Chicago's downtown post office yesterday with three sacks of mail, weighing 135 pounds. The same eight-mile trip by truck usually requires 45 minutes.

Miller's flight was part of Chicago's observance of national air mail week. He attempted to show the feasibility of using such ships for speedy transmission of air mail between flying fields and postal stations located in downtown districts of large cities.

Miller landed his tiny craft within a 50 foot area atop the roof which is 14 stories high. A few minutes later he took off on a return trip with sacks of outgoing mail. The round trip required 17 minutes.

Tax Revision Bill Still Needs O. K. But Group Already Considers New One

Washington—(AP)—Although President Roosevelt has yet to sign the administration's tax revision bill, members of the house ways and means committee disclosed today they already are considering another measure for next year.

Representative Cooper (D-Tenn.) said it "seems to be generally agreed" that congress will have to undertake further changes and additions to the revenue laws in the 1939 session.

In the first place, Cooper said, the president has asked congress to remove the tax exemption from federal securities and salaries of both federal and state governments. Action is not expected this year.

Secondly, the modified tax on undistributed profits just approved by the senate and house has been lim-

Agrarian Leader Charges
President Tries to Incite Him to Revolt

Mexico City—(AP)—Several persons were wounded today in a clash between students and several hundred members of an organization known as "socialist youth" who had occupied buildings of the University of Mexico.

The "socialist youth" force, armed with pistols and knives, seized buildings of the university and its preparatory school early this morning and resisted efforts of police and firemen to eject them.

Enraged students who discovered the seizure of the buildings shortly after 9 a. m. (9 a. m., E.S.T.) made several forays trying to recover them, but were met by pistol fire from the roof tops. A number fell, wounded.

The students desisted after Rector Chico Goerne counselled calm, asserting hunger would compel the invaders to yield.

Internal Unrest

The clash was the newest manifestation of internal unrest following the March 18 expropriation of 17 British and American oil companies.

Associates of the agrarian leader, General Saturnino Cedillo, charged today that President Cardenas was trying to "drive him to rebellion" to distract the public from the administration's troubles.

Cedillo, who has an armed peasant following to whom he has allotted land on his estate in San Luis Potosi, broke with Cardenas last August and quit the ministry of agriculture.

There since have been frequent rumors he was ready to lead a revolt against the government.

The latest rumors this weekend sent federal troops into San Luis Potosi, northwest of here. Under virtual martial law, they mounted aircraft, sent four hundred troops and established an anti-aircraft unit at a principal street corner where there are public buildings. Trouble did not develop.

Oshkosh Attorney Injured in Crash

Neenah Man Fined $100
For Reckless Driving
After Accident

Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau

Oshkosh—Otto Porath, 220 N. Lake street, Neenah, was fined $100 and costs for reckless driving by Judge S. J. Luchsing in municipal court this morning as the result of an accident in the town of Winnebago Sunday afternoon resulting in serious injury to D. K. Allen, prominent Oshkosh attorney.

Porath, who was given an alternative of 90 days in the Winnebago county jail, was going south on joint Highway 41 and 45 in the town of Vinland and crossed over to the left lane and into the path of the oncoming Allen machine, according to the police report.

The accident, which occurred shortly before 2 o'clock, was investigated by District Attorney Lewis C. Magnusen and Captain Irving Stip of the county highway patrol.

Allen suffered a brain concussion, crushed chest and other injuries and was removed to Mercy hospital at Oshkosh.

Joe Williams, 247 Gruenwald avenue, Neenah, was an occupant of the Porath machine and neither he nor Porath were reported injured.

Farley Backs Kennedy, Earle in Pennsylvania

New York—(AP)—Openly entering into the controversial Democratic political situation in Pennsylvania, James A. Farley, postmaster general and chairman of the party's national committee, today announced his support of Tor. Kennedy for governor and George H. Earle for senator.

Farley said he did so because he thought the struggle within the ranks of the Democrats "imperils the success of the party in the November election."

Kennedy, now lieutenant governor, has the backing of John L. Lewis, head of the Committee for Industrial Organization, and of United States Senator Joseph F. Guffey (D-Pa.)

The state Democratic committee's candidate for governor in the primary is Charles Alvin Jones, Pittsburgh lawyer.

Plans Special Session To Handle Relief Needs

Chicago—(AP)—With Chicago's relief funds exhausted, city and state officials were faced today with the problem of feeding 34,000 families.

Governor Henry Horner said he would call a special session of the Illinois legislature to handle the relief situation. He planned to confer today with state departmental heads and legislative leaders before announcing a date.

Meanwhile, Lee M. Lyons, relief commissioner, said he was powerless to prevent closing of Chicago's 23 relief stations Wednesday and suspension of 1,500 of the 1,908 persons on the staff.

5 Persons Hurt in Traffic Accidents In Appleton Area

2 Victims in Serious Condition Following Crashes
Over Weekend

Five weekend traffic accidents in the Appleton area resulted in injuries to five persons. Two of the victims are in serious condition.

The injured:

Harvey Van Lankvelt, 16, Little Chute, broken pelvis, torn kidney and a crushed lung. Condition serious.

John Van Gompel, 19, Kaukauna, cuts about face.

Miss LaVerne Look, 15, Little Chute, minor cuts and bruises.

Arthur Kersten, 52, route 1, Hortonville, fractured skull, punctured lung, several broken ribs and a fractured knee.

Bernard McIlhonne, 40, 1932 W. Elsie street, cuts and bruises about head and leg.

Miss Look and Van Lankvelt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Van Lankvelt, Little Chute, were injured while riding bicycles towards Appleton on old Highway 41 just southwest of Kimberly about 8:15 Saturday evening. The two were riding with a third companion, Robert Driessen, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Driessen, Little Chute.

The bicycles of Van Lankvelt and Miss Look and a car being driven north by Robert Schmitt, 19, 311 E. Eighth street, Kaukauna, collided.

According to Jack Frenz, county motorcycle officer, who was called, Schmitt attempted to stop his car when he noticed the cyclists and his machine swerved around so that the side of the machine and bicycles crashed. Van Lankvelt was thrown into the ditch while his bicycle was tossed to the opposite side of the highway. Miss Look escaped serious injury but her bicycle was almost demolished. Van Lankvelt was taken to St. Elizabeth hospital and his condition was reported fair today. Van Gompel was riding with Schmitt and was cut by flying glass.

Hits Culvert

Kersten was hurt when the machine he was riding hit a culvert at the intersection of a town line road and County Trunk O at Bungert, town of Ellington, shortly before noon Saturday. He was driving north on the town line road when the accident occurred. The car tipped over after hitting the culvert.

New Fight Is Seen On Reorganization

Revival of Administration
Strength Encourages Leaders

Washington—(AP)—Revival of administration strength in congress, it was learned today, may encourage President Roosevelt's lieutenants to try to push through the controversial government reorganization bill before the session closes.

The house pigeonholed the measure last month, but two Democratic members now are conducting a survey to determine whether there has been any change of sentiment among opponents.

There has been no public indication that any appreciable number of representatives would switch their positions.

Election-year pleas for early adjournment are increasing, and Democratic chiefs are making every effort to clear the congressional slate by the middle of June.

A senate appropriations subcommittee, starting hearings today hopes to send the administration's $3,154,000,000 relief bill to the senate floor this week.

Former President Is Fishing in Wisconsin

Goodman, Wis.—(AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover was fishing Coleman lake near here today, the second day of Wisconsin's 1938 fishing season. The telephone at the cabin lodge at Coleman Lake club, where he was a guest, was disconnected temporarily.

Hoover is scheduled to deliver the principal address to the Milwaukee Boys club at its golden anniversary here Wednesday.

Two Youthful Robbers Are Hunted in LaCrosse

La Crosse—(AP)—Police today sought two young bandits who held up H. H. Borst as he checked his grocery store receipts last night. They escaped with $42 after Borst was struck over the head when he grabbed one of the men with his elbow, thinking the holdup a joke. A car stolen from Dr. A. Skemp was believed used by the bandits. It was recovered later.

PARTY DIRECTOR

Selection of Adjutant General Ralph M. Immell (above) as executive director of the National Progressives of America was announced today by Governor Philip F. LaFollette. He was chosen by persons who helped form the new party, the governor declared.

Selected by Organizers of
New Party, Governor
Declares

Madison—(AP)—Governor Philip LaFollette announced today that Adjutant General Ralph M. Immell has been selected as executive director of the new political party, National Progressives of America.

The governor, who is chief officer of the N.P.A., issued a statement saying that Immell had been chosen by persons who assisted in formation of the new party.

"Ralph Immell has demonstrated extraordinary gifts as an administrator and organizer," the governor said. "As secretary to the late Governor Blaine, as adjutant general, as director of conservation and as the first state WPA administrator he showed his remarkable capacity."

Mentioned For Senate

"His willingness to accept this new call to service will be a source of great satisfaction, and assures effective and sound economical organization for the new party."

Immell previously had been mentioned in Progressive circles as a potential candidate for United States Senator.

Governor LaFollette said the new party has received thousands of applications for membership from all parts of the country in the last two weeks.

"With Ralph Immell and the splendid staff now assured, the work of the National Progressives of America will go forward with dispatch," the governor said.

The chief executive maintained silence on whether he will run for a fourth term. He has consistently refused to discuss his personal plans, stating that he has not yet made up his mind.

The governor may have something definite to say in connection with the state meeting of the Farmer-Labor-Progressive Federation here next Saturday.

Herman L. Ekern, former state insurance commissioner and close friend of the executive's father, the late Senator Robert M. LaFollette, Sr., conferred with the governor today but declined to say what had been discussed. The Madison Capital Times, Progressive newspaper, recently suggested editorially that LaFollette seek a fourth term and that Ekern be the party candidate for United States senator.

Woman Sentenced for Espionage in England

Edinburgh—(AP)—A sentence of four-years' penal servitude for spying on Britain's vital east coast defenses and communicating with agents in Nazi Germany was imposed today on little grey-haired Jessie Jordan.

J. C. S. Reid, solicitor-general for Scotland, told the Scottish high court of justice that foreign agents mentioned in the modified indictment to which the 51-year-old Dundee beauty parlor operator pleaded guilty were "foreign agents in Germany."

The indictment charged her with making plans of a prohibited (military) area and obtaining information concerning coastal defense and coast guard stations on the east coast of Scotland.

Mrs. Jordan's counsel said she was Scottish born, but acquired German citizenship by marriage to a German and had spent most of her life in Germany.

50 to 65 Reported Registered Before Tragedy

RECORDS ARE LOST
13 Injured When 5-
Story Structure
Burns Down

Atlanta—(AP)—Flames which started in a basement kitchen killed 25 persons at the Terminal hotel early today, left 13 injured and an undetermined number of others missing.

More than a dozen persons were rescued or leaped to safety.

Reports to firemen and police indicated from 50 to 65 persons were registered in the 63-room, 5-story brick and frame building.

Many of the dead were found in the charred timbers and steel which dropped from the roof, carrying away the burning floors.

Police Chief M. A. Hornsby expressed belief "10 or 15 more" bodies would be found in the mass of debris piled up on the street level.

Destruction of the hotel records and mutilation of the victims by falling timber and steel hampered identification efforts.

The ruined walls stood as a menace to traffic and rescue workers. Police said a high wind would cause them to crumble.

Collapse of the roof, plunging debris through charred floors to the basement cut off hope of survival for any who were trapped. Only the walls were left standing.

"At Least 50" Guests

Hotel attaches said "at least fifty" were registered when the flames broke out with an explosion in the basement kitchen shortly after 3 o'clock (eastern standard time) this morning.

Fire Chief O. J. Parker said he was informed 60 were in the brick and frame building.

Five persons jumped. One man, unidentified, who leaped from a fourth floor window, died of a broken neck. Three other men were suffocated.

Chief Parker declined to speculate as to what the death toll would be when searchers completed a check of the debris.

A dozen hose lines still poured water through shattered windows as dawn. Ambulances were lined up in the plaza of the fourth floor. A fire escape from the fourth floor, waiting for the discovery of other victims.

Workers are Injured

Ben L. Berry, 78-year-old hotel clerk, and G. R. Kimberly, a fireman, were burned on the hands in rescue work.

E. K. Gully, 48, special agent of the department of internal revenue, and his wife were awakened by the smoke and heat and fled down a fire escape from the fourth floor.

"Two minutes more," Gully said, "and we would never have made it. I don't see how any of the others could have gotten out alive."

Mrs. Gully was removed to another hotel. Gully, with a borrowed raincoat over his pajamas, stood in the spray of the fireline to watch demolition of the structure where he had made his home.

"Smoke awakened my wife first," he said. "I started to open the door into the hall. It was hot. Then I realized that would be the worst thing to do. We went out through the bathroom to the fire escape."

Charlie Labon, bellhop at the hotel for 20 years, was on duty in the lobby when the fire broke out. He said a messboy in the basement kitchen screamed "Oh Lawdy, fire" and he felt a muffled blast from below.

Fire Spreads Quickly

Almost immediately, he said, smoke and flames streaked up. "I ran to the elevator," he said, "and tried to get up to warn some of the guests, but the flames spread so quick I had to jump from the elevator cage on the second floor and run."

"The man on the switchboard (Berry) got burned trying to ring the phones. There wasn't anyone got out except those that jumped or got down the fire escapes."

Firemen found one man dead half way across a window sill. His pocketbook was partly burned and only

Report 5 Killed Because of Fight Aboard Steamship

London—(AP)—The death of five men after a fight at sea was reported today when the United States steamer City of Norfolk arrived at London from Baltimore and Norfolk, Va.

The United States lines office said one man jumped overboard after a fatal assault on another member of the crew the night of May 14. Three others were drowned when a rescue boat which put out in a heavy sea capsized.

The shipping office said the names of the men involved were not immediately available.

(The City of Norfolk, 8,424 tons, left Baltimore May 5 and Norfolk May 6 for London and Hamburg. She is listed as belonging to the Baltimore Mail Steamship company.)

Try to Determine Farm Cooperation Under Crop Plan

Next Three or Four Weeks Expected to Reveal Sentiment

Washington—The next three or four weeks will determine the extent to which the agricultural adjustment administration has been able to win farmer cooperation with the new crop control program.

By the end of that period the 1938 cotton, tobacco, corn and other spring crops will have been planted. Because the nation's cotton and tobacco warehouses and corn cribs are bulging as a result of last year's record production, AAA officials insist smaller crops must be grown this year if they are to deal effectively with price-depressing surpluses.

They blame the surpluses along with the business setback for a 25 per cent drop in the level of farm pricing last year, sending them to the lowest point since 1935. Complete cooperation with the AAA programs would show a cotton acreage of about 17 per cent below last year, a corn acreage in the commercial area of 18 per cent less, and a tobacco acreage of about 10 per cent smaller.

Marketing Quotas

AAA officials are much more concerned over the corn program than over those for cotton and tobacco. Growers of the two latter crops have voted to invoke marketing quotas. Even though more cotton and tobacco than the AAA desires may be produced, the quota system will limit sales.

If the Midwest produces another large corn crop, the AAA would be obliged to submit to growers a proposal to impose marketing quotas to keep new surpluses from moving into market channels and depressing the price further.

However, refusal of a large number to cooperate in the planing program, officials said, might mean rejection of the quotas, which require approval by two-thirds of the growers. Should that happen, Secretary Wallace pointed out last week, the AAA would be helpless to aid corn growers, because price-supporting loans could not be made. Although new chapters of the Corn Belt Liberty League—an organization of Illinois farmers opposed to the new farm law—continued to spring up in midwestern states, AAA officials expressed confidence that at least 80 per cent of corn growers would cooperate with the program.

leadership, at least until the Fond du Lac convention June 3. He expects to become a candidate for the United States senate.

Eberlein Is Keynote

(5) Selection of M. G. Eberlein of Shawano as the keynote for the Fond du Lac convention, lending credence to the general belief that Eberlein is favored by the organization leaders as a candidate for governor if Walter J. Kohler declines to enter the field.

(6) Action by the committee providing for a doubling of the number of delegates to the state party convention.

For those outsiders who expected the Oshkosh meetings to clarify the muddled party picture, the sessions were disappointing. Although their applause was scarce, it was significant that several program speakers declared bluntly that the campaign machinery of party exists mainly on paper.

Among them was Harlan Kelley, rambunctious Sheboygan attorney whose feud with Democratic leaders resulted in his election from that party and who now classes himself a Young Republican. Kelley in a half hour of plain speaking told the Young Republican delegates from 24 counties that they do not amount to much, and that both they and their elders must set to work promptly if they are realistic about their prospects in the state election this year.

Need New Philosophy

If there was a keynote in the other convention speeches, it was this: Republicans will have found after the 1938 and 1940 elections that they were barking up the wrong tree unless they immediately decide upon a complete reversal of fundamental philosophy, a revitalization and liberalization to correspond with the party in Lincoln's day and the decades following.

This was put succinctly by Charles Smith of Wausau, who appears to be one of the leading candidates for the senatorial nomination this year. "Make the Republican party the people's party" was his cry, and show that this is intended in earnest, he recommended a "house-cleaning" campaign which would turn out the entire list of present party leaders.

Assaults Leadership

According to Smith, who hasn't been getting along with the Samp crowd in the state, the Republican party has been bankrupted by its present leaders, who are of the same type as the Democratic and Progressive leaders whom the Republican rank and file so cordially dislikes.

"The Democratic party has been stolen by the quack brain trusters," he said. "In the Progressive ranks there never has been but one 'der fuhrer' who insisted on tribute to keep himself and his cohorts at the public trough. In the Republican ranks, the party has been stolen by self-appointed head men who only know how to spend money and to keep themselves, not in public office, but in their offices at the public trough of the Republican party." "There is but one hope and that is a desperate one. It is a major operation on the Republican party to take it away from the special interests and return it to what it started out as—the people's party."

Fight for Control

The two Republican state committees, he charged, are fighting each other for the leadership, while outside in the state honest opponents among the plain citizens of the LaFollette and New Deal administrations are looking for a party to which they can give their allegiance.

Oddly enough, the Young Republican convention program was taken up mostly by speeches from candidates who wanted a sounding board for their own aspirations. Smith's forthright remarks were paralleled by Frank Keefe of Oshkosh, who would like another chance to run for congress on the Republican ticket in the Winnebago district.

While the Republican youngsters dutifully listened to the program of speech-making they had prepared for themselves, Chairman Samp and his colleagues were talking over their own affairs privately in another hotel down the street.

Hotel Room Meetings

While his resignation was supposed to be all arranged—several of his committee members suggested pointedly that if he is to become a candidate he should quit immediately—that matter was quietly smoothed over behind their locked doors. Postponement of Samp's decision was vaguely explained with a reference to some internal troubles which demanded his continued service as campaign head.

At the same time neutral observers concluded that the charges of weak machinery have some basis in fact. It was revealed that only 15 counties have yet been organized on Samp's charter plan, and the convention is two weeks distant. The Young Republican organization, too appears to be very scattered. Delegates from only 24 counties turned up for the much advertised convention. That machine, it was pointed out by realistic party chiefs, will be pitted against a Progressive organization which is complete down to the last precinct, which is even now in shape for the campaign, and which has been immeasurably strengthened by two years of power in the state and New Deal patronage since 1932.

Topping off the convention program was the appearance of Colonel Knox, the Chicago newspaper publisher and one-time Bull Moose.

Insanity Plea Is Believed Likely In Shooting Case

Oil Operator in Michigan Accused of Slaying Former Associate

Clare, Mich.—The possibility of an insanity plea as the defense of Jack Livingston, oil operator, against a charge that he shot and killed his former associate, Isaiah Leebowe, was seen today in the statement of an attorney.

Joseph K. Naumes, Clare lawyer, said that he and two others had been retained by members of the oil fraternity whom he did not identify as counsel for Livingston, held in the Clare county jail at Harrison since the hotel barroom shooting here Saturday night.

Leebowe, 41, and Livingston formed in the early days of Michigan's oil boom the company which finally became the Mammoth Producing and Refining company, one of the largest independent oil firms in the state.

Quarrels Reported

Leebowe still headed it at the time of his death but the 43-year-old Livingston had withdrawn. Friends and associates said they had quarreled several times.

William A. Comstock, former Democratic governor of Michigan, and Leebowe were close friends and the oil magnate, who amassed a fortune in the business, reputedly was his financial backer as well.

Attorney Naumes, after visiting Livingston in jail a few hours after the shooting, said:

"He appeared to be mentally deranged and talked incoherently with only brief periods of lucidity." Naumes said that James E. Ryan, Mt. Pleasant, and Charles Goggins, Alma, would be associated with him as defense counsel.

Attorney For Gangsters

The slain Leebowe himself had been an attorney and practiced in New York, where he had served as counsel for several notorious gangsters.

He and Livingston, prior to that, were in the oil business together in Tulsa, Okla.

Byron "Pete" Geller, formerly assistant state attorney-general and Detroit newspaper man who recently entered the practice of law in Clare, was sitting with Leebowe in the Doherty hotel Saturday and the name—Roberts was found on a telephone bill.

Find Family Dead

Firemen described the death of what was apparently a family, father, mother, young son and daughter.

The woman was found sitting in a chair. The little girl knelt by the bed. The man and small boy were lying on the bed. All were unidentified.

The hotel, an old structure, had been remodeled in recent years. It was situated near the center of the Atlanta railroad yards, about five blocks from five points, the heart of the city.

Firemen expressed belief as many as 40 might have died in today's fire. Bodies were battered by the falling debris.

Bottles in a liquor store in the front of the hotel were broken and the alcoholic stream added fuel to the flames.

Bottle Exchange Will Talk Prices Tonight

The special meeting of the Appleton Milk Dealers Bottle Exchange board of directors scheduled for Saturday afternoon was postponed and will be held at 8 o'clock tonight at Whispering Pines school. Discussions of the price of milk in this vicinity and on the proposed plan whereby customers buying milk at stores would make 5-cent deposits on each bottle will be held. Committee members appointed to study the price situation and bottle plan will confer with directors at the meeting.

1:45 Saturday afternoon. There will be 40 horses in the contingent which will present the demonstration, 14 of them expert jumpers.

The famous Blue platoon also will display its cavalry drill which is executed by whistles. Composed of picked men, the Blue platoon is unique in the Midwest. The members wear original, picturesque dress uniforms of the Civil war period, plumed helmets, gold braid, and carry 8-foot lances, regalia that made the American cavalryman one of the most colorful in history.

AIRMAIL CACHET

Pictured above is a reproduction of the special cachet which will be stamped on airmail letters leaving Appleton by plane Thursday afternoon. The city is participating in the National Airmail Week observances which opened Sunday.

Appleton Has Special Cachet for National Airmail Celebration

Appleton will take official cognizance of National Airmail week now being observed throughout the nation when a sack of mail bearing special cachets from this city leaves here by plane Thursday afternoon for Milwaukee.

The Appleton cachet, designed under the direction of George A. Schmidt, pictures a plane in flight, with an apple sketched above it. On the apple is printed the syllable "ton", completing the word "Appleton". Above the drawing is written "National Air Mail week" and below it, "May 15-21-1938, Appleton, Wisconsin."

Postmaster Stephen Balliet has requested that residents who wish to mail air mail letters via the special plane Thursday afternoon have them in the post office by Wednesday at the latest. The week is being celebrated in commemoration of the first airplane flight made by the Wright brothers and to heighten the public's interest in aviation and air mail service.

Aldermen to Consider Sanitary Sewer Plans

Plans for the installation of sanitary sewers on Calumet street will be presented for approval at the next session of the city council. The sewer was proposed last Monday evening by Fourth ward aldermen as a taxpayers project.

Dykstra Statement Following Sellery's Charge Awaited at Badger University

Madison—University of Wisconsin students awaited today an anticipated statement from President Clarence A. Dykstra following a charge by Dean George C. Sellery that the editor of the Daily Cardinal, campus publication, was dismissed because he is a Jew.

Dykstra indicated he would have something official to say in the strike that has divided the Cardinal staff for several weeks since Richard J. Davis, of New York was notified by the new Cardinal board that he would not be retained as editor. Publication of the Cardinal is under student control and efforts of faculty and student groups to end the strike of the Davis faction, which has been publishing a separate edition, so far have failed.

Charges "Stalling"

Dean Sellery criticized the campus Saturday when he issued a statement saying that organizations which have been active in settlement negotiations were guilty of "stalling."

He charged that racial prejudices exist on the campus and that the ouster of Davis was contrary to Wisconsin traditions of liberalism and democracy.

Dean Sellery criticized the faculty committee on student life and interests, the student elections committee and Madison attorneys who had been consulted for advice by both sides. He said these groups have prevented holding a student referendum.

Fined for Failure to Stop After Accident

Joseph Marschall, 22, 1209 N. Division street, pleaded guilty of failure to stop after an accident and of failure to have a taxi driver's license in municipal court of Judge Thomas H. Ryan this morning. Judge Ryan fined Marschall $15 and costs on the first charge and $1 and costs on the second.

Marschall drove his taxi into a parked car on Superior street last Thursday evening, police said.

Bob's Views Unchanged After Weekend Cruise

Washington—Senator LaFollette (P-Wis.) said today his view there was a need for a strong "third" party remained unchanged. The Wisconsin senator, who with his brother Governor Phil LaFollette of Wisconsin is sponsoring the Progressive party movement, was a guest of President Roosevelt on a weekend cruise down the Potomac. The trip led to speculation that the president was seeking to win back the support of the Progressives, who reputedly broke with him because of his failure to resume government spending activity earlier.

LaFollette said politics was discussed "incidentally" in conversations with the president, and Senator Green (D-R. I.), another guest. "It would be foolish for me to say that three persons as interested as the president, Senator Green and I did not discuss politics," he said, but our discussion was only casual and incidental."

Modern Bartenders Have All Kinds of Problems

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—When I first put on long pants and thus qualified for admission to the bar the bartender was a plain man with simple duties. He had to know how to draw beer with the proper depth of collar, a knack easily mastered, and, on the intellectual side, he had to be able to read labels so as to distinguish between rye and bourbon, even though both bottles were filled from the one keg. He had to be a durable listener, able to put in, at the proper moment in the recital of a customer's domestic woes, with a sympathetic, "Well, that's the way life goes," and his professional eye and ear were supposed to have an instinct for the dew-point beyond which a patron might drop asleep on the street car and be carried past his corner going home.

Pegler

And, of course, he had to know how to make change and keep a mental file of those patrons who had steady jobs and were entitled to credit, and to what extent, between paydays.

Beyond these gifts and an ability to keep peace by authority or restore it with his beer hammer the bartender had no other requirements to meet. There is an old superstition that he was also a philosopher by night and a physician in the morning, but that is only superstition. The philosophy with which the rye and bourbon clients on the other side of the bar endowed his remarks on life with its sorrows was imperceptible to the buttermilk patron. And the medicine which he dispensed with soothing assurances in the morning never did any good. The patients only thought it did because they had reached that point at which a man can't feel any worse and must get better or die right away. Those who didn't die got better and gave the bartender credit.

I suppose most of those old bartenders are in their graves by now or demoted to kitchen police in the new saloons, for the crop are young men, many of them graduates of the speakasies, and they have problems which the veterans of that day would be unable to solve and would scorn to consider.

Ladies Were Segregated Where Ladies Were Tolerated

There are the sidicar, for example, composed of cointreau, brandy and lemon juice; the alexander, of creme de cacao, sweet cream and gin; the honeydew, of gin, strained honey and the juice of a lime, and the pink lady, made of shaving lotion, buttermilk and strawberry extract. There are various sorts of kisses and caresses and that strange affection cultivated in the time of prohibition to stifle the taste of the liquor, called the old fashioned cocktail, a fruit salad dunked in rye and crowned with a sprig of turnip greens.

I shudder to think what might have happened in my saloon days to anyone who had asked a bartender for a pink lady. I am thinking of the respectable bartenders, of course, but even the others would have misconstrued the order and jerked a thumb toward the back room. You see, they kept

Expect Completion of Beltline 41 Next Year

While construction of culverts and bridges and grading undoubtedly will be done this summer for the completion of the superhighway beltline in the county, west of Appleton, actual paving work is not likely to take place this year, Frank R. Appleton, county highway commissioner, stated today. The superhighway will be extended from Highway 10 about a mile north through the county asylum property and then east to the intersection of the superhighway and Highway 47. This will bring the beltline entirely around Appleton. At the present time the route is in Appleton on Highway 10 and the north about a mile on Highway 47 to the superhighway. Rights-of-way still must be secured and preparation for the grading and bridge and culvert construction probably will be secured by the state highway department within the next month or two.

Bishop Rhode Attacks Anti-Church Propaganda

New London—Anti-Christian propaganda, a partial press, morally filthy publications and indecent motion pictures present a multiple problem and a great challenge to the Holy Name society and Christianity at large, the Right Rev. Paul P. Rhode, bishop of the Green Bay diocese, told a diocesan convention of 400 Holy Name men at the parish hall of the Most Precious Blood church here yesterday afternoon.

Each generation has had its own troubles, the bishop stated. Now that the motion pictures have been greatly improved through the action of the Legion of Decency, the speaker urged that the Holy Name society now turn its attention to the flood of immoral and indecent magazines and other publications appearing currently on the public newsstands.

The bishop attacked the general press strongly for what he charged is a partial report of the world's happenings. He cited instances of persecution by the church in foreign lands and compared the trivial reports to what was known from other direct sources to be an attack. Much is printed that is unfavorable to the church but little is said favorably, he charged.

We live in a world of propaganda and the tremendous development of the press and the enormous amount of literature in distribution is a constant source of danger to Christian ideals, the speaker warned. He classed the propagandists into three groups, those who have never been in contact with the church and have no understanding of its purpose, those who have been reared in prejudice and those who sell any publication in their greed for wealth.

The greatest program and highest aim of the Holy Name society is personal perfection and virtue, and effective Catholic action is predicted on that, the bishop admonished.

New London Society

New London—A 7 o'clock pot-luck supper will feature the season's last meeting of the Catholic Women's Study club at the parish hall tomorrow evening. Mrs. Gregory Charlesworth is in general charge.

The program will consist of a travel talk by Miss Alice Mulroy, a book review by Mrs. R. L. Fitzgerald and a discussion of the news of the day by Mrs. F. J. Murphy. Mrs. D. B. Egan will give a reading and Mrs. Henry Monroe will read the scriptures. Noted cathedrals will be taken up at roll call.

Mrs. N. R. Demming will be hostess to St. Paul's Guild of the Episcopal church at her home Wednesday afternoon. A regular meeting will be held.

The Little Theater group will hold a party at the home of Mrs. M. A. Ullrich, director, this evening in honor of Miss Jeanne Bass who will return to her home in Madison this week. Miss Bass has been employed in this city the last several months.

The Order of Eastern Star will hold a regular business meeting at the Masonic temple this evening, followed by a social hour. Hostesses will be Mrs. Esther Hertel and Mrs. Alice Houghton, Hortonville. Mrs. John Bottenseck and Mrs. Hazel Kuehnle, Dale.

Thousands Crowd Band Parade Lane At District Meet

All Class A and B Units Win Top Ranking For Marching

New London—Thousands of visitors and townspeople jammed New London's main streets from 4 to 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon to witness the ever-interesting spectacle of uniformed bands parading, this time 31 high school and grade school bands of this area taking part in the district concert festival here Saturday. Parents, friends and ordinary onlookers began picking vantage points along the streets an hour before the parade was scheduled.

All of the five Class A and B bands bringing up the rear of the parade received a first place rating for marching proficiency. The reviewing stand was located on North Water street at St. John's place and the judges were J. J. Richards, Chicago; C. Ross, Wauwatosa; and Harvey Krueger, Milwaukee. These men judged the maneuvering contests at the city athletic park immediately after the parade and granted a first rating to each of five taking part.

The Class A and B bands earning a first rating in parade marching were Appleton, Oshkosh and St. Mary's of Menasha, Class A; and New London and Menasha Public, Class B bands. In the maneuvering contests was Menasha Public, St. Mary's of Menasha, Amherst, Winneconne, and Oconto Falls. The latter two are Class V bands while Amherst was entered as a Class D organization.

Drum Majors Compete

Five drum majors entered parade competition as individuals and each received a first rating in their respective class. Clayton Hopfensperger of St. Mary's was the only entry in Class B while those competing in Class C were Mary DeLeon, New London; Bernice Ufer, Winneconne; Frances Dumbeck and Gerald Jensen, Menasha.

Ten of the Class C and D bands received a first rating, nine were placed in the second division and five were rated third. Contrasting among the smaller groups was the Crivitz Drum corps, the boys band of the Oshkosh grade school, and the blue and white checkered hats and white sports togs of the Tigerton band.

Following are the ratings of the Class C and D bands: Group I, Kaukauna, Clintonville, Seymour, Marion, Weyauwega, Shawano, Amherst, Oconto Falls, Pulaski, Wautoma, Winneconne; Group II, Hortonville, Manawa, Omro, Redgranite, Suring, Crivitz, Gillett, Birnamwood, Almond; Group III, Appleton Class D band, Oshkosh grade school, Peshigo, Tigerton and Wild Rose.

Final Health Session At Forest Junction

Forest Junction—A class of approximately thirty members, which had been taking a course in maternal and child health, had its concluding session here Friday afternoon. The course had begun on April 22 and consisted of four meetings held at successive intervals of one week. Instructors were Dr. Elizabeth Taylor and Mrs. D. Irene Bigler of the bureau of maternal and child health of the state board of health. Arrangements for the course were made by Miss Elda Bartels, Calumet county nurse, and it was locally sponsored by the Parent-Teacher association of McKinley school.

The paragonage of the Forest Junction circuit of Evangelical churches, sold three weeks ago to Herbert and Leonard Krueger, has been moved to a new location on the opposite side of the intersection of Highways 10 and 57 on the north village limits. The building was being placed in fact at the new site on Saturday and will be remodelled for continued residential use. It was built in 1895 at the time of the construction of Zion Evangelical church in the village. Workmen were now clearing away the foundation and basement walls at the old site, where a new paragonage is being built this summer.

that sold us. — only
Speed Queen has them

BOWL SHAPED TUB

Which would you use to beat eggs or stir up a cake — a flat bottom pan or a round bowl? You would use a regular mixing bowl, of course! For the same reason, the bowl shaped tub of the Speed Queen produces a more efficient water action and washes clothes much faster and cleaner.

DOUBLE WALLS to keep water hot!

Every housewife knows that HOT water is essential for quick and thorough cleansing. For that reason, the Speed Queen tub has double walls with an air space between. This acts as an insulator and keeps the water hot throughout the entire wash.

Steel Chassis Construction

This steel chassis makes the Speed Queen a strong, solid machine. Nothing can work loose or get out of alignment. Notice that the drain spout is mounted to the steel frame — not the tub — so that the frame takes the full strain in case the spout is accidentally bumped. Outside steel walls also protects porcelain tub.

Super-Duty Safety-Roll Wringer

Four, husky COIL springs provide uniform, damp-drying pressure. It is equipped not only with a Safety Release but also an AUTOMATIC RELEASE in case of overload. Easy to close and pressure is self-adjusting.

MODEL "B"

A BETTER WAY TO IRON

How much easier it is to do your ironing on a Speed Queen Ironer, comfortably seated, than it is to stand the better part of a day over a back-breaking ironing board! Not only is it EASIER, but your ironing is out of the way in less than half the time.

HOW MEXICO WILL "PAY"

The Mexican government has made a tentative offer to pay American and British oil companies for their expropriated property through the sale of 60 per cent of the oil production during the next ten years.

It would be a nice thing to buy any property if one could immediately take it over without paying a dollar, absorb 40 per cent of its earnings for ten years and then own it entirely.

Is this the explanation of Mexico's proud boast that she will know "how to honor her obligations of the present and the past"? This is worse than anything Richard Whitney ever did.

Our government is proceeding in this matter in its usual lackadaisical manner. But it must do so in order to be true to its Neighborly Policy. We have been paying Mexico tribute since Mr. Roosevelt has been President. This is turning the world upside down since in olden days tribute was paid by the weak to the strong and although it is just for America to depart from that old doctrine of Caesar it was hardly contemplated that in order to induce friendship it would be purchased by tribute such as our payment to Mexico for her silver twice what we could buy it for elsewhere.

The President advised Mexico that it is a rule of international law that any country may confiscate any property within its borders to whomsoever belonging but he failed to give Mexico the second sentence of that rule which says that such confiscation cannot take place unless the property is paid for before its owner is pushed off.

We advanced the thought when this property was confiscated that Mexico would never pay for it. This idea originated in an understanding of Mexican policy, the methods of thought pursued by Reds and the flaccid notions of the Roosevelt administration, not only in respect to its foreign policy but in respect to its internal policy.

In the meantime the 122,000 American stockholders of the company which was treated to a sweet case of banditry in Mexico after being invited in to spend its money, find the State Department is too busy in European affairs to even give its elementary rights the slightest genuine attention.

Mexico is really smart. It has understood the Roosevelt regime better than most of the Latin American countries. Anywhere an American walks, anywhere he is induced to make an investment, anywhere he is promised legitimate returns in order to get him in, he is merely easy pickings for any bandit, any mountain robber or any Red who is smart enough to go slowly, knowing that he can fool our rulers but that it were not wise to arouse our people themselves.

The boys in the Latin American countries who do not confiscate American vessels in their harbors are overlooking a nice opportunity.

A CHICAGO BABE AND OTHERS

The contradictory nature of man was clearly to be seen while the decision hung in the balance at Chicago whether a five-week-old child with glioma would be permitted to die or be preserved even though for a sightless life.

It is altogether to the credit of the people that they became considerably wrought up over the desperate decision that had to be made. It is possible that with the loss of one eye sight may still be retained and life too, but were we to return to the original proposition where it seemed that life could only be saved at the cost of both eyes then indeed would there be presented for judgment a proposition that never could be adjudged satisfactorily however it may have been decided.

We all know, of course, that children have been dying like flies in China and Spain, slaughtered in many instances as ruthlessly as a hawk kills for its dinner. The first reaction to the needless slaying of children on a battlefield is probably as great as in the Chicago baby case but emotions like working hands are capable of becoming calloused and after a while the sorrowful expression, "Too bad" becomes a shrug of the shoulders and then deprecating palms turned upwards, and then nothing.

And if there is any lesson in a comparison of these incidents it is that war is bound to make men brutal and, long continued, savage.

ALL IN THE LIFE OF AN OAK

Scientific foresters declare that a great white oak tree at Mingo, West Virginia, took root from an acorn 650 years ago. That would make 26 generations using the customary count of 4 generations to a century.

Beside that oak how puny and transitory all we appear, not only in stature but in that very important thing to mankind, longevity.

While that oak sprouted and then spread its branches was dotted the civilized world even more than the uncivilized. It took wars in England to bring forth the Magna Charta, wars in Italy to break the tyrant's sway which in those days was limited to a city and enough agricultural land to support it, wars in France, Belgium and Germany, not between nations as such but merely to direct the course of human migrations as men looked around for sufficient land to support themselves and families, and wars that spread to every part of the America as hostile tribes amalgamated to offer resistance to the relentless spread and rule of the white civilization.

But in certain places these wars took on a different aspect than prevailed elsewhere. They were aimed at making some advance in the freedom of men to govern themselves, a thing that could only be accomplished, it was felt, when men could think for themselves and talk for themselves and finally register opinions for themselves.

Out of all these 26 generations of working, thinking, striving, hoping and improving, grew what we might justly call the modern democracy in order to differentiate it from earlier democracies which faced vastly different situations.

But so much time has elapsed in the process judged by human standards, that few if any men can trace their lineage back to the time when the Mingo oak started on its uneventful career, and those who do trace their families back that far find it necessary to leap pretty wide chasms and force connections in order to accomplish their purpose.

Other white oaks will sprout this spring from acorns. Two more end on end like the Mingo oak will take us to the year 3238 and advance mankind 52 more generations. Judged by the progress that has been made during the life of the Mingo oak—and there has been splendid progress—some columnist in 3238 will write:

"The white oak that was just cut down near Pembine was the second that grew there since 1938, a period when the earth was dark with signs of war, when the cupidity of men was high and their success apparently great in that that success depended wholly upon their ability to fool their fellowmen. There were wars in Spain and China, from which emerged such a mass of falsehood as to sicken the world, and hundreds of millions of people, in fear for their security spent their last gold and mortgaged the future for a century to arm against attack. Suddenly calm and reason spread where everything had been clashing and intolerance and the world concluded that its worst enemies were those who deceived great masses of people, spread among them vicious, repellent falsehoods, that first angered and then maddened them against others, who in turn were similarly angered and maddened, but when the people realized the great truth and rid themselves of men who were called dictators in some countries and demagogues in others, they discovered there was no reason on earth or in heaven why they should destroy what God had created and set themselves upon the task of toleration, for toleration between men meant everlasting peace."

Yes, indeed, all this could happen within the lives of two white oaks, perhaps within the life of one.

Opinions Of Others

ABUSE OF JUSTICE
Judge Robert J. Dunne has seen fit to release the youth Schmidt on probation. This action is a triumph of sentimentality over justice and public policy. If human life is cheap in this community this action will make it still cheaper.

The beneficiary of false sentiment in this instance went deliberately to lie in wait for and assault an elderly man. He asserted that he did not intend to kill him. He did intend to injure him. He did intend to use his superior physical strength on a man he knew could not defend himself. A youth of 19 is nearing the height of his physical power. A man at 59 is long past it and no match for any healthy youth. It takes a perverted morality that can condone Schmidt's conduct and find reasons for condoning it and freeing him from its just consequences. Schmidt cut a man off in mid-life. He deprived a wife of her husband and a family of its head and support. He caused death and bitter sorrow and loss. He set an example of brutal force to the undisciplined youth of the community. Justice may be tempered with mercy, but mercy should not be perverted to the betrayal of justice and the encouragement of the unmerciful. There was no mercy in Schmidt when he killed his victim. There is no mercy in leniency which fosters violence.

For destroying a life and plunging an innocent family into bitter sorrow and loss Schmidt escapes with a penalty hardly more severe than if he had broken a window. This abuse of justice and policy is flagrant and without excuse—Chicago Tribune.

Mexico's interior department has moved to rid its offices of "coyotes"—"go-betweens" or "fixes"—and foreigners in Mexico have been advised they do not need intermediaries to transact business at the department.

COMEBACK

Jonah:

"A man in politics and a man in love ought not to be held responsible for what they say."

This quip under the caption of "Feminine Thoughts" was not, as the editor of this column insinuated, propaganda for Roosevelt.

On the contrary. It is really intended as an easy alibi for the anti-Roosevelts when the next election returns show them how little their mud-slinging tactics harmed our splendid president, either personally or politically.

—MRS. G. W.

With all respects to Mrs. G. W.'s sincerity, I must point out that what is mud-slinging for one side is noble conversation for the other. This goes for New Dealers and anti-New Dealers alike. At present, the New Dealers have the best smear on their payroll in the person of Charlie Michelson. The anti's have picked up what promises to be a good one themselves.

And I'll bet Mrs. G. W. that there will be fewer New Dealers in Congress after the next election than at present, even though the New Deal suffers no further loss of prestige between now and November. This is how politics usually seems to work, and even Jim Farley will probably privately admit that such is the case.

THE MASQUERADER

She wears a mask, this vital one!
Her hair has whitened in the sun
Of more than threescore years . . . Her brow
Is lined . . . Her quick step falters now.

But hers is just a masquerade.
For youthfully and unafraid
Her spirit shines from eyes alight
With years of laughter and delight.

She is not old! Her voice holds yet
The music we cannot forget.
When warmed and strengthened by her tone,
We take her courage for our own!

HAY FEVER

Coryza is Greek (no fooling) for catarrh. Webster, to whom I refer in these minor matters, defines coryza as an acute inflammation of the mucous membrane of the nasal cavities; nasal catarrh. Trouble with Webster is he doesn't know where to stop. Give him his head and he goes on and on as long as anybody will listen. But I have already paid him due deference and that's enough. We'll leave him gabbling about cold in the head and exhumed Dr. Osler, who explains that autumnal catarrh, often associated with asthmatic attacks, is due to the action of pollen of certain grasses and plants upon a hypersensitive mucous membrane. Then Dr. Osler goes right into the history,iology, pathology and therapeutics of the ailment. I commend his example to Dr. Webster, who takes up entirely too much time and space trying to please everybody.

Hypersensitive mucous membrane, Dr. Brady had better explain means the mucous membrane is more sensitive, more irritable, more susceptible to impressions or stimuli than a normal mucous membrane, for instance reacting quickly and excessively to pollen grains in the air. Whether the hypersensitivity or hyperesthesia is a state of the cells constituting the mucous membrane itself or of the sympathetic or autonomic nerves supplying the mucous membrane is a secondary consideration. Here the important thing to remember, whether you have genuine hay fever, perennial hay fever (which is rarely if ever genuine), a low grade ethmoid sinusitis, vasomotor hyperesthesia rhinitis or just a mysterious nasal allergy, is that any calcium deficiency renders all body cells, nerve cells as well as muscle cells and mucous membrane cells, more irritable. It is well to remember, in association with this physiological function of calcium, that according to good nutrition authorities the diet of Americans is more likely to be deficient in calcium than in any other element. And finally, another physiological fact of practical importance is that an adequate intake of vitamin D is essential for the absorption and utilization of calcium in the cells.

Now hay fever covers many ailments which are not necessarily all due to the same inherent or constitutional cause. However, if any prophylactic or remedial treatment is likely to do good and unlikely to do any harm in such case it is in my opinion the calcium and vitamin D treatment, which I have often suggested and which has proved beneficial in most instances, according to the reports I have received from many correspondents who have obtained relief in this way. I am glad to mail on request monographs on Hay Fever and Calcium feeding, provided you inclose a three-cent stamped envelope bearing your address, and do not send a clipping in lieu of your request.

Ben Told Is Here Again

Daughter, 10, broke arm above elbow in Europe last year. Her arm is fine now. She wants to learn fancy ice skating. But I have Ben Told that her arm might break again at the same place and she will be crippled. (E.Z.)

Answer—If she were my daughter I'd give Ben the Bronx cheer and bid the child to carry on just as though she had never had an accident.

Medicine Marches On
A physician (not a specialist) writes:

In the past ten years I have done only one tonsillectomy—for a patient who had to leave the city in a hurry and could not spare the time to take diathermy treatments.

I have employed electro-coagulation with complete satisfaction to a great many of my patients. I use procaine anesthesia—injection the solution into the anterior pillar, not into the tonsil. Patients declare they felt no pain.

Answer—Yet some doctors still try to discourage patients who seek the modern treatment. And some patients are so susceptible that they undergo the old Spanish custom rather than give the time necessary for half a dozen sessions in the doctor's office.

Your Birthday

"TAURUS"

If May 17 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a. m. until noon; from 2 to 4 p. m., and from 8 to 10 p. m. The danger periods are from 8 to 10 a. m., from 6 to 8 p. m., and from 10 p. m. until midnight.

This will be a good day to remember, "you cannot eat your cake and have it too." The money you spend this day you might need tomorrow. Do not expect too much from your friends, for they are likely to have little time to spare from their personal affairs. Make it a point to remember where you put things, for conditions are conducive to mislaying and losing a large variety of articles. Keep in mind that friendship at the best, is frequently a gamble, and only that companionship which has been subjected to numerous tests, can, as a rule, be relied upon when good will, sympathy and a ready response to a requirement is urgently needed. Unfortunately, a good deal of excellent advice will do little good this day, and it will be only through experience that lessons are going to fulfill them, so think twice before making them, so think twice engaged couples, and those who feel that they have a right to be optimistic about their matrimonial hopes, will display wisdom if they refrain from jumping to any hasty conclusion.

If a woman and May 17 is your birthday, you may go to extremes in many ways and things. You probably on occasions, do things with a startling amount of thoroughness. You are apt to be very quick in both thought and movements. You should be a convincing talker, with the gift of tinging your conversations with good natured wit or biting sarcasm, as the occasion warrants. Your judgment as a rule, can be depended upon, and, possessing an unusual amount of tenacity, you should be a decided success in business. As a lecturer, teacher, actress artist, business woman or sales agent you might find your time fully occupied, and your bank account an enviable one. Marriage appears to be the most promising medium for contentment, prosperity and loving devotion.

The child born on May 17, has usually an animated expression that wins it many friends. Generally full of pep it keeps the household enlivened. As this youngster grows older it should develop a forceful, as well as pleasing, personality.

If a man and May 17 is your birthday, you seldom harbor malice, having, apparently, a most forgiving spirit. You will hardly include the word failure in your vocabulary, for you have backbone enough to fight the hardest when things look the darkest. As a salesman, promoter, agriculturalist, engineer, inventor, author, actor, artist, musician, lawyer or doctor you ought to be able to overcome any obstacle that is in the way to success.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY GEORGE TUCKER

New York—One day last week, as previously reported, this correspondent had dinner with Dr. Roy Akagi, scholarly Japanese author and lecturer who is counsel in this country to the South Manchuria railway. We talked for hours and most of deal with Far East problems with Japanese expansion, with Russia, China, and world affairs in general.

But in reporting this conversation I omitted one specific story told me by Dr. Akagi, a charming story of ceremony and manners, a way of doing things, it seems to me, that belongs in an opera, and not in a column mixed up with European "isms" and talk of war.

Place over the dinner plates I am sure this story would never have suggested itself to my companion. But dinner it was, and presently we were admiring the design on the dishes, and that was the way it came about.

For it concerns the difference between the western and the Oriental manner of serving a meal. "These are charming plates," said Dr. Akagi. "But have you ever noticed that dinners in America are served on dishes that have the same pattern? I mean the plates, the saucers, the cups, the gravy bowl, the vegetable dishes, all are of a uniform pattern. And that is very nice, especially if the pattern is pleasing, as this one assuredly is. But in the East, in the Japanese homes, you are like to think that a blanket pattern does not always make for the utmost in harmony. So we do it this way:

"We permit the food itself to determine the color and the contours of the dishes. Perhaps the first course may be served in an oval bowl, of light blue in color. The second course may be served in a triangular, or an oblong dish, or even one that is curved like an 'S'. But the color, the food and the shape of it always determines which dishes we use.

"And here is another thing. If you were to walk suddenly into the living room of a Japanese home you would think: 'What a bare uninteresting room! And you would be right. For there would be no decorations, no tapestries, no flowers. But there is a satisfactory reason for this. This room is really a stage. When a Japanese invites you to his home he studies you carefully, he tries to imagine the things you like, the sort of surroundings you prefer to be in. Then he hurries home and dresses the room accordingly.

"If you are a writer, for instance, the room will become cozily arranged with many books and a fireplace and perhaps trinkets that the host knows you admire. If you are a musician, the room takes on the atmosphere of a musical study—a piano, a bust of Mozart, perhaps some manuscripts of Wagner, and, oh, sure, modern American jazz. Modern Tokyo could not get along without American jazz. You see, we Japanese may hurry like mad New Yorkers through the eight business hours of the day, but in the after hours we like to think we still retain a sense of leisure, a casualness that lets us and permits us to enjoy some of the pleasures and beauties of life."

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—This may be a bit tough going but it is full of juristic vitamins that your lawyer friends will be discussing months and years hence.

The Supreme Court has just upset a 98-year-old rule of law and held that federal courts, in deciding cases involving "unwritten" or common law, must abide by the common law as it is interpreted in the state where the case arises. This is the importance of state courts accented by no less an authority than the Supreme Court.

Harry J. Tompkins of Huges-town, Pa., brought the suit that resulted in the historic decision. He was walking on a path along the Erie railroad tracks when a train passed. An open door hit him. The railroad contended that according to Pennsylvania common law a man walking "along" a railroad track is little better than a trespasser even if the path is an old one. (Walking "across" might be different.) The railroad contended that Pennsylvania common law prevented Tompkins recovering damages unless the railroad wantonly injured him.

But Tompkins did not sue in state court. He was able to sue in federal court because the railroad was incorporated in New York, not in Pennsylvania where the action occurred.

The New Rule

The first federal court declined to accept the Pennsylvania state court precedent and held instead that no law or precedent stood in the way of Tompkins collecting the $30,000 the jury awarded. The Supreme Court reversed that decision and held the Pennsylvania state court precedent should guide the federal court.

Federal courts always have held that they must abide by state court interpretations of "written" state law, but ever since a decision in 1842 they have followed their own interpretations of what should be the common law. The Tompkins case represented a complete change of attitude.

Several years ago the Brown and Yellow Taxicab company had a contract with the Louisville and Nashville railroad for the exclusive privilege of handling passengers at the Bowling Green, Ky., railroad station. While there was no specific Kentucky statute prohibiting this, the state courts had held that as a matter of "general or common law" such exclusive contracts violated a section of the state constitution against monopoly.

The Old Rule

In came the Black and White taxicab company and began cutting in on the Brown and Yellow cab business at the station.

The Brown and Yellow cab company, supported by its exclusive contract would be held void by state courts. So it incorporated in Tennessee and transferred title to all its cabs to the new Tennessee corporation. Then, because it was an out-of-state corporation, it brought suit in federal court to stop the Black and White cabs from getting Bowling Green's station business.

The federal courts, including the Supreme Court, sustained the Brown and Yellow's contract, thus permitting it to escape the effect of the Kentucky state constitution's prohibition of monopoly. That was the old rule.

Since decisions affecting contracts, damages, cases, liability of public carriers, mineral conveyances and many other types are based upon "unwritten" or common law, the importance of new decisions can be only estimated.

Under the CAPITOL DOME

Madison—The governor's job is just like any other job, and the man who has done pretty well in his own line will be a successful governor.

James George Peterson of Medford speaking. Refreshing because of its naivete is Mr. Peterson's announcement that he is a candidate for the Republican party nomination for governor. Like many of his fellow citizens, Mr. Peterson believes, or pretends to believe, that governmental office requires no special skill, that public administration is a big name for common sense.

Any public official will tell you, however, that government is a science as exacting as any other, and its practitioners, in the ideal, should be trained if they are to expect any success whatever. Business success has never yet guaranteed that a man will be a good governor, a good president, or a good incumbent of any high and responsible office, they say.

Peterson, who is practically unknown in Republican politics, makes his bid on the basis of a belief that "the people are beginning to want a middle-class man who has been successful at his own business because of his own hard work."

RELIEF ANOMALY
After looking into the relief problem of Wisconsin pretty thoroughly, the Wisconsin Taxpayers Alliance poses a question: can the state achieve real economic prosperity as long as one out of every six people in the state are maintained at public expense?

Despite the fact that Wisconsin last year, according to the best authorities, had returned to within 6 per cent of its 1929 prosperity level in income of all its people, combined relief and recovery expenditures in the state last year amounted to $91,000,000. The year 1933 marked the low point in the total income of the state, and the income of Wisconsin's citizens last year was 79 per cent above the 1933 low. Yet 1937 relief expenditures were more than double those of 1933, and the number of relief cases, instead of being less, was actually 20 per cent higher last year than at the depression's deepest point.

The graph following shows Wisconsin's relief costs during the last half dozen years. State and local expenditures are indicated in the shaded portion, federal allocations in the black. The totals include social security aids, direct and work relief.

State Concerned Over Decline of Dairy Quotations

Cheese Market Dropped 5 Cents a Pound in Last Five Months

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison — With pessimistic letters and callers increasing at their offices daily, state agricultural department officials are showing concern about the price situation in the milk, butter and cheese markets, which together determine whether the Wisconsin farmer is operating at a profit or loss.

Biggest concern is the steady, and by now alarming, drop in the cheese market. During the past week American cheese was quoted at 12 cents, which is the lowest price paid for that important Wisconsin product since the darkest days of the depression.

The present price shows that during the last five months there has been a drop in the cheese market of 5 cents a pound, while the current price is 2 cents less than at this time a year ago. Moreover, some officials with good memories are recalling that a quarter of a century ago, when cheese prices dropped to 12 cents, Wisconsin farmers were protesting threateningly.

Frequent Conferences
Thus far, it appears, state agricultural authorities have found no means to bolster the price situation, although there have been frequent conferences between producers, farmers, legislators and others with the department heads.

Find No Solution, Assembliesmen William Rohan of Outagamie county, Frank J. Lingelbach of Oconto, and William Sweeney of Brown county discussed the problem with department officers. They reported no solution in sight.

Agricultural experts explain that consumption of cheese is holding its own, and over a long-time range of years, has increased satisfactorily. The root of the problem seems to be that production is increasing at a pace too rapid to match consumption advances.

Early this spring, for instance, cheese production according to reliable estimates was 10 per cent higher than a year ago.

While the butter market currently is also rather low, it is keeping ahead of the cheese price level, according to statisticians.

In some quarters it is felt that the commodities purchasing policy of the federal government has prevented a drop in dairy produce prices which would have exceeded any previously experienced in Wisconsin.

Leaders in Revolt

Charles L. McNary
By Ray Tucker

This is the seventh of ten articles by the ace Washington correspondent on men and issues behind the New Deal's Palace revolution.

BY RAY TUCKER
Had Charles Linza McNary been less of a patriot and more of a partisan—to reverse "Jim" Farley's tribute to the Republicans' Senate leader—President Roosevelt might not be confronted today by a party up to its un-washed neck in a serious, term crack-up.

It's the most humorous paradox of a crack-pot age. The smiling, red-headed, natty attired Oregonian is, perhaps, the only Republican to mow down such a hostile, victorious and well-organized army as the Roosevelt-Farley forces with only a political silencer for weapon. Whereas the Hoover-Landon-Hamilton bombardment hardly pockmarked White House walls, their Capitol Hill strategists' sniping has provoked mutiny on the sunny side of the Senate aisle.

Hardly had the President's Supreme Court proposal been received by the legislators before the late "Joe" Robinson strolled over to his golfing companion, "Charley," he asked with a worried frown on his face, "when are you fellows going to open up?"

"Charley" grinned, for he wasn't sure himself. He didn't know then whether he could look the lips of Messrs. Hoover and Landon and the fifteen prima donnas in the chamber. He also knew from friendly scouts that "Joe" was having an equally hard task to prevent restless Democrats from flouting the Chief Executive's proposed reform.

So "Charley Mac" grinned, scooted off to get rid of his hook (golf, not politics) and found time to crawl on his office floor with his adored 3-year-old daughter astraddle his back.

Stuck To The Sidelines
Impatient, impractical partisans reviled him, as they did when he voted for numerous New Deal experiments in 1933. They didn't discern the strategy behind his silence and his retreat from regularity. They weren't as smart as Claude Swanson, once Mr. McNary's Senate associate, but now part-time Secretary of the Navy.

Said Mr. Swanson after observing the Oregonian's technique in a similar dilemma, "It takes courage to straddle a fence in politics—and get shot at from both sides." But Mr. McNary persisted in turning both cheeks to both enemies—a posture so unorthodox and Chauvinistic that it bewildered politicians who live by prayer and precedent. The Democrats' shattered ranks, however, vindicate him.

Consciously or not, the Senator modeled his course in the New Deal's early days after Browning's medieval bishop, who lived riotously and righteously at the same time. He observed the forms of the church and women on the theory that, if there was a hereafter, his religious regularity might entitle him to a cloudy deed. If there wasn't, well—he had had his fun down below.

The Senator stuck to the sidelines in the bitter battle of 1932, though he attended Leland Stanford with Herbert Hoover, and he voted for nine of the administration's first seventeen measures. For his reward he was permitted to sponsor the Bonneville power project for his state, although several Rooseveltian Progressives from the Northwest begged for the honor.

Likewise this Republican leader in a Democratic administration got millions for a new state capitol, sea locks, a canal, and more than his share of WPA and FVA funds. It was in 1936 that Mr. Farley characterized the Senator as "More a patriot than a partisan."

Mr. McNary, on his part, played long-range politics. He furnished the New Dealers with no alibi that their reforms had bogged down because of organized, political partisanship. So the Senator hinted when, on a return home, some honest conservatives beat him for his friendliness toward the man in the White House.

"Some of us," he told them, "voted for bills on which we had doubts but we wanted to give the New Deal a chance. I have no apologies for my votes. In times of depression party politics should be put aside."

Esposes Social Reforms
Between the lines of that seemingly frank utterance spoke the voice of the most astute Republican leader today. Besides giving the New Deal a "chance," he was also handing it a rope. Nor did he give any assurance that the moratorium on "party politics" was more than temporary.

Nevertheless, he did not vote indiscriminately, and in his ballots may be glimpsed his fundamental political beliefs—also the general outline of the path he believes a liberalized and socialized Republican party must pursue. He supported such social and economic schemes as N.R.A., A.A.A., T.V.A., S.E.C., S.S.B., N.L.R.B., HOLC, WPA and the holding company act. But he turned thumbs down on all tinkering with the monetary and tariff systems.

In a formal article entitled "Republicanism—Its Future," he expressed the essence of the party's future policy—the superiority it possesses, in his opinion, over its historic rivals—the battleground upon which he foresees a victory as early as 1944. After reviewing the major parties' weaknesses since the time of Washington, Hamilton and Jefferson, he says:

"Regardless of changes of name and shifts within the organization, the party that stands for well-managed public finance, a reasonable and helpful attitude toward business and a pursuit of social progress through true federalism—not authoritarianism but cooperation on practical issues—that party has had a fairly continuous history. . . and that history will continue. I am sure, for a long time to come."

Has No Enemies
Nor was he talking through his political hat when he preached "social progress." In 1919 he sponsored an old-age pension act, and supported the League of Nations. He voted for government ownership of Muscle Shoals and for municipal ownership of power plants in Oregon. He fathered a farm bill—the McNary-Haugen measure—that was branded as Marxian by Messrs. Coolidge and Hoover. In fact, when the Palo Alto man became President, he dubbed his former college chum "a shade too radical," and therefore ineligible for Senate leader.

Mr. McNary's career supplies some evidence that there is something to Carlyle's theory of history—namely, that Providence or some fate piles up in the form of men and issues the materials for progress at a given moment.

It is doubtful if any other Republican could have kept the G. O. P. on a sane, sensible path through these topsy-turvy times, or provide the personality that may yet reunite western and eastern, liberal and conservative wings. It may be no accident that this cocky Colossus also happens to be the most popular, ablest and best dressed member of the Senate—by formal ballot of his colleagues and Washington correspondents.

He has no enemies even among squabbling statesmen who cannot agree on a common attitude toward Santa Claus. After a particularly rough session his associates presented him with a massive silver tray as a "slight token of their appreciation of his devotion and loyalty to his country, and his courtesies and many kindnesses to them." He throws his arms around such contrasting fellows as Johnson and "Jim" Watson, Borah and Lodge. Till his death the late "Jim" Cousens was the Senator's daily golfing chum and warmest friend.

An Inconspicuous Politician
A many-sided man, his off-the-floor delight is cultivating fruits and flowers on his Oregon ranch—reading on the veranda or before the kettled fireplace built for four-foot logs—wandering beneath the huge Douglas firs. He has to his credit development of "the imperial prune" and introduction of the filbert industry to his state.

He also found time, in his placid but plentiful sixty-four years, to preside as dean of a law school and serve an appointive term on the Oregon Supreme Court. It is probable that few politicians can match the sportsmanship he exhibited when defeated for reelection by only one vote. When friends begged him to demand a recount, he shrugged his shoulders with an "Aw, what the hell!" and returned to law practice.

Clearly he lacks that trait which threatens the ruin of so many Republican rivals and even of the Grand Old Party itself—a sense of pontifical solemnity. He has been scolded for his "what the hell" insouciance, but unlike Browning's bishop, he's sure that there will be a political hereafter for ascending angels if they will keep their shirts on and take off the hairshirts.

Continue to Plant Wall-Eyed Pike in Wisconsin Waters

Madison—Well-eyed pike—a million pounds of them—have had a preview of men and the inside of boats this spring.
E. O. Webster, superintendent of fisheries, estimates that in taking wall-eyed pike spawn this spring the men of the fisheries division are handling about a million pounds of fish. The fish are caught with nets for the removal of spawn and are immediately returned to the same northern Wisconsin water that they are forced to desert but for a few moments.

Due to its spawning and hatchery operations, the conservation department was able to plant about 300,000 wall-eyed pike throughout the state last year. Spawning and hatching operations are still under way this year.

The wall-eye is one of Wisconsin's most important game fishes. Muskies are the lure of big game hunters but the wall-eye is the old stand-by that has won for itself the resorts' designation of "bread and butter fish."

15,000 Persons See Wildlife Exhibit

Animals and Fish Returned to Poyntette Game Farm Today

More than 15,000 persons, adults and children, visited the wildlife, floral and parks exhibit held at Pierce park Friday, Saturday and Sunday.
Members of the committee reported today that 1,450 adults paid admissions while the rest of the visitors were children numbering 13,790 and were admitted free. The tickets were distributed to the schools.
Although the exhibit was not a financial success the committee said it could be considered a success because so many children were given a chance to see the live animals and to learn what is being done to conserve them in Wisconsin.
Cases and aquariums were dismantled this morning and transported with animals and fish back to the state game farm at Poyntette. The animals were obtained from the state conservation commission and the fish were trapped in waters in this vicinity. The fish will be released this week.
F. M. Foor was chairman of the committee in charge and was aided by E. W. Shannon, W. Ray Challoner and representatives of the conservation department.

State May Buy Airplanes For Fire Prevention Work

Madison — Airplanes may soon be roaring over Wisconsin's vast forest and timber reserves as another effort toward fire prevention, it appeared today as Governor LaFollette received a recommendation from the state conservation commission that experiments be made with the resources of aviation in the state's forest protection work.
At the suggestion of Chief Forest Ranger E. J. Vandervall and Director H. W. McKenzie, the six member commission Wednesday adopted a resolution urging Governor LaFollette to approve a $3,000 appropriation for the purchase of a small plane for experimental purposes.
The state is now using planes for forest protection work, but they are rented, Vandervall explained. He maintained that past experience with rented planes warrant the purchase of state machines.
"There is a very definite need for both planes and radio in forestry service. Other states are now far ahead of us in these developments," the forestry chief told the commissioners.
Almost a year ago the commission approved a plan to purchase, but the governor has not yet acted on its order. The commission's resolution yesterday urged the governor to act immediately.

Enthusiasm Shown For Jace Cleanup Drive This Week

Residents Voice Approval Of Campaign to Beautify Appletton

Appletton residents are enthusiastic over the cleanup, paintup, and fixup campaign which is being sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce this week.
Promotion of safety by removal of fire hazards, better health conditions in the city, stimulated business, and aid to the unemployed were aims of the drive lauded by men and women questioned this morning.

Following are comments made to a Post-Crescent reporter:
Alfred H. Wickesberg, city engineer: "The street department will do everything possible to cooperate with the jace in their cleanup campaign. We are as interested as anyone else in keeping the city neat and trim."

H. H. Helble, high school principal: "The campaign is very timely, because we always think of housecleaning when spring comes. An effective cleanup drive will help the beauty and health of a city. I'm certainly in favor of it."

Stephen Balliet, postmaster: "The spring campaign sponsored by the jace is a healthy influence on the city and its residents. I'm solidly in back of the movement and hope it becomes one of Appletton's strongest traditions."

George P. McGillan, fire chief: "I endorse the movement as a fine effort and want to call attention to the fact that rubbish left about often causes fires. Last year there were 24 rubbish fires reported. Persons should include the inside as well as the outside of the home in cleanup campaigns. Rubbish should be removed from basements and attics to reduce fire hazards. In painting homes, roofs of punky shingles should be fixed. There were 22 roof fires last year. So far this year there have been 10 such fires, involving a loss of $3,388."

Mrs. Edgar V. Werner, vice president of the Eighth district of Wisconsin Federation of Women's clubs: "I endorse cleanup week heartily and feel it will help materially towards beautifying the city."

Kenneth H. Corbett, secretary Appletton Chamber of Commerce: "What I like about cleanup week is that it not only improves the physical appearance of the city but it adds to property values, stimulates business, helps employment and has an often overlooked but highly significant safety feature. The chamber is very much in accord with the principles of cleanup week."

Warmer Weather Comes; 74 Today

Fair Tonight, Partly Cloudy Tomorrow, Milwaukee Bureau Reports

The month of May softened today, after acting rather harshly during most of her stay, and presented Appletton and vicinity with pleasant spring weather. At noon the thermometer atop the Post-Crescent stood at 74 degrees.

Fair tonight and partly cloudy tomorrow, with little change in temperature, is the forecast issued today by the Milwaukee weather bureau. Showers are predicted for the southwest portion of the state tomorrow.

For the 24-hour period ending at 9 o'clock this morning, the highest mark in the city was 64 and the lowest 45, according to charts at the Wisconsin Michigan Power company plant.

Phoenix, Ariz., with 100 degrees, and Park Falls with 38 were the hottest and coldest cities respectively in the nation yesterday.

Be A Safe Driver

They are Roger Delfosse, 24, 1417 S. Lave street, who was arrested early this morning; Joe Reynbeau, 32, Little Chute, who was arrested Saturday; and Ervin Filz, 19, tax driver, 111 S. Water avenue, who was arrested Saturday night. The arrests were made by city police.

It Is Said--

That if the petty thieves who think it's funny to steal city property, because it happens to be city property, keep at it, Appletton won't have any more welcome signs put on College avenue when conventions come to town. While the flags were up last week for the Federation of Wisconsin Music clubs convention, seven flags were stolen, a net loss of $35 to the city. Two were recovered by the Appletton police department but the thieves were not apprehended.

Health Queries Answered

Question: I am not well, unable to sleep nights, often awake with pains in my neck and shoulders. Can you help me?
Answer: Mrs. E. A. Palmer. Very often this is a symptom that accompanies or precedes many kinds of illness even such common things as stomach trouble, poor elimination, nervousness, or insomnia are accompanied by a marked tenderness or tension in the neck. Neck tenderness is found also in headaches, neuralgia, and similar conditions. Tenderness indicates that there is pressure on the nerves in this area, and that may be the basis of any sort of disorder because you must remember that the nerves are nature's medium of conveying energy to all the organs of the body. Your body is an all modern house that is electrically operated. Every room, every device in the building, receives the necessary energy to give you service through the expression of this invisible force that is harnessed to the mechanism of every device that man has made for his comfort: lights, radio, vacuum sweeper, toaster, refrigerator, all these depend entirely upon the electric current for the power to give you service. In your body the heart, lungs, stomach, kidneys, liver, in fact every gland and every muscle are alive and able to function only to the degree that this nerve life is being expressed through them as it is conveyed from the brain over the nerve fibers that radiate outward from the spinal cord. By long study and practice Chiropractors have found that the spine is of vital importance to the health of the body because it is virtually the human switch board from whence all nerves are distributed. The Palmer School of Chiropractic found, through scientific research, that the neck is of greatest importance because all nerves must pass through the neck in order to reach the other parts of the body. You see the neck is least protected and has more movement than any other part of the spine, thus a joint in the neck may more easily get out of position than any other vertebrae and when it does it will cause damage, just as the main electric switch will interrupt service. Scientific instruments have verified this. For your health problems consult

Mrs. Ober concluded her talk with a quotation: "And I say unto you, life is indeed darkness save when there is urge and urge is blind, save when there is knowledge and knowledge is empty, save when there is love and work is vain, save when there is love. But when you work with love you bind yourself to yourself, to each other and to God."

Mr. Settenberg explained that charter counties will be entitled to additional delegates in the number of one for each 100 signed memberships. Considerable more than the 250 memberships required in Winnebago county were secured, Mr. Settenberg said.

What's New at the Library

The great border chieftain who found himself in politics against his wish and to his regret, Andrew Jackson, is the subject of a biography by Marquis James' which is among the new books at Appleton Public Library. Jackson made the presidency of the United States one of the first offices of the world. Elected for his second term, an adversary said "He can be president for life if he chooses." He entered the White House devoid of personal ambition and began to reform the political and monetary structure of the country from top to bottom and emerged the greatest popular leader and executive genius perhaps of his century. His administration was a pageant: the spoils system, the quixotic defense of Peggy Eaton, lady of dubious background about whom much has been written but little known, the collection of a debt France had decided to forget, the overthrow of a privately controlled Bank of the United States which ruled the finances of America; the alteration of the social philosophy of the supreme court.

"The Rocky Road to Dublin" is the fascinating title of the autobiography of Seumas MacManus which although written in the third person is the author's own story. It tells of his boyhood in Bongan, his first job, his coming to America where he became an established writer of stories. He presents vivid pictures of Ireland, the fairies and the quail, the heard, and is a storehouse of Irish ballads and folk tales.

The author of "The Robber Barons," Matthew Josephson, has written a companion volume entitled "The Politicos" which is a history of the parties and great party leaders who dominated American politics during the years of the "robber barons." Professional politicians who had existed as a class and as an institution since 1828, became a fourth and decisive arm of government, created the traditions, customs, technique and folklore of a complex political life. The sketch includes such men as Roscoe Conkling and Horace Greeley.

The log of a British cruiser with observant incidents about the Mediterranean is "Naval Odyssey" by Thomas Woodroffe. The interesting data includes selecting football pitches at Constantinople, hunting a duck on the plane of Troy and picnicking with a Russian general and his wife and daughters.

In the book, "Must We Go to War?" by Kirby Page, the author studies the causes of war, its nature, a variety of possible methods of preventing war, duties of churches and synagogues toward the problem and the ways in which each individual person may help prevent war.

An anthology of folk poetry collected by Ruth A. Barnes through boys in many parts of the country who told her of these poems is "I Hear America Singing." Many are concerned with the work men, some sung by sailors and boatmen, cowboys, miners, trappers, hunters, shanty men, lumberjacks and whalers, but all are close to the affairs of common life.

"Children of the Rising Sun" by Willard Price is a book about the Japanese people, living on a crowded island where only 15 percent of the land can be cultivated, shaken by earthquakes, swept by typhoons and tidal waves, where they must fight nature. They are trained to toil ceaselessly, live sparsely, dream greatly, worship their emperor and die gladly for honor.

The 11 band members are entered in nine events. Those who will take part and their selections include: Anthony Will, French horn, "Andante Cantabile"; Kenneth Thiel, trombone solo, "The Message"; Patricia Heenan, oboe solo, "French Concerto"; Joan Hickey, bass clarinet solo, "Deepenard"; Margaret Kennedy, tenor saxophone solo, "Tyrolean Fantasia"; Mary Ann Thiel, vocal solo, waltz song from "Romeo and Juliet"; Margaret Kennedy, vocal solo, "Il Bacio"; Clayton Hopfensperger, cornet solo, "Carnival of Venice"; and a cornet trio composed of Donald Rausch, Donald Thorne and Clayton Hopfensperger, "Triplets of the Finest."

Teachers Forecast Gain in Number of Grade School Pupils

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison—The Wisconsin Education association, organization of Wisconsin public school teachers, has denied the common prediction that elementary schools in the future will be without children to educate.

Its statement pointed to the fact that the number of children born in Wisconsin has increased every year since 1933—the depression year in births as well as in business—so that the number of children starting in elementary schools in 1940 will be above the number now enrolled.

The association predicted that when the total number of births for 1937 is compiled, an increase of 6 per cent over the record of four years ago will be shown.

"The decline of the elementary enrollment during the past few years has caused concern in educational planning," the group said. "However, the decline in the early grades will cease in 1940 with the advent of the children born in 1934 into the schools and the lower grade enrollment is certain to increase each year for four years."

Count Borolaski, a 39-inch Polish dwarf, was a friend of George III and one of the most accomplished men in London society.

Be A Safe Driver

case against the Shapiro Liquor company, according to Police Chief Alex Slomski. The case is scheduled for 10 o'clock Tuesday morning before Judge J. J. McGee. The company is accused of routing false labels on liquor sold to local tavernmen, according to the chief.

Illinois Decision Clears Issue on 'Sit-Down Strike'

Lawrence Says Congress Relied on State Courts To Protect Property

BY DAVID LAWRENCE Washington—Those who occasionally despair about the functioning of the American system, who lament the abuses of power that legislative and executive agencies sometimes manifest, do not always observe the quiet but effective way in which the courts of the United States, federal and state, apply the law to correctives.

The most notable example of corrective process has been rather generally overlooked, yet its significance is far-reaching. I refer to a decision just handed down by the appellate court of the state of Illinois with relation to sit-down strikes, on the one hand, and a ruling by the National Labor Relations board which to a large extent ignored the violation of state laws by these same strikers.

When the sit-down strikes in Michigan were attracting nationwide attention, most people wondered what had happened to the courts of justice in that state. The general assumption was that a "sit-down" strike was an act of trespass, yet the secretary of labor expressed doubt, and not a few New Dealers thought some peculiar evolution of law might justify seizure of plants by workers. Later on, the secretary accepted the theory that sit-down strikes were unlawful, but the United Automobile Workers of America, in convention assembled, formally adopted a resolution pledging themselves to the continued use of that weapon.

Now the Illinois court has ruled so clearly on the "sit-down" strike that the decision may become of central importance as a precedent in future labor controversies. For in this case, a direct conflict occurred with a ruling of the National Labor Relations board, and the court's decision also has a bearing on the argument of those who have wanted to see the Wagner act amended to prevent acts of coercion by workers as against fellow-workers.

The Illinois decision would seem to make superfluous any such amendment and would seem to place the responsibility for protection against acts of coercion squarely on state judicial systems.

Based on Contempt Case The present case, which was fought by the Fawcett Metallurgical corporation against the Amalgamated association of Iron and Steel Workers, resulted from a sit-down strike and from the sentence by a lower court in Illinois of 37 sit-down strikers for contempt in violating an injunction issued against them. Says the appellate court, Justice Dove presiding:

"Council for appellants (sit-down strikers) argue that the National Labor Relations act designated as the Wagner act a complete code covering all the relations of employer and employee, that in enacting it congress considered all phases of the relations between employer and employee and prescribed the powers and duties of each so far as it seemed advisable to provide for their regulation, that no state court can have any jurisdiction of any subject matter arising thereunder and the circuit court . . . was wholly without jurisdiction either to issue the preliminary injunction or impose the penalties upon appellants for a violation thereof."

"The act was enacted in the hope that it would reduce industrial conflicts but no power to preserve order or prevent violence incident to labor disputes is conferred upon the National Labor Relations board nor is there anything in the act which could be construed to mean that congress intended to interfere with the states in providing police protection to its citizens or their property. To give the act the construction contended for by appellants (sit-down strikers) would very likely render the act itself invalid."

"Certainly a court of equity was not deprived of a recognized branch of its jurisdiction simply because the federal act created a board which has no power to hear complaints or grant relief of the character which the state court granted here.

Hits Factory Seizure "Because an employer refuses to bargain with its employees collectively cannot justify those employees in their conduct of a strike in seizing the factory of their employer and without authority of any kind, evict their foreman, barricade the doors, deny the rightful owner admission to his own property, and defy those whom they know to be officers charged by law to carry out the orders and decrees of a court."

"There is nothing in the Wagner act which deals with the subject of violence or any illegal acts committed by employees in the course of an industrial dispute, and in our opinion congress did not, by its enactment of the Wagner act, deprive or attempt to deprive the states of their police power to protect property rights or punish illegal acts committed in the course of labor disputes nor do we think there is any merit in the contention of appellants (sit-down strikers) counsel when they insist equity cannot now have jurisdiction of any phase of the subject of the relations between employer and employee in a labor dispute affecting commerce."

"The remedies available to either an employer or employee in a court of equity prior to the enactment of the act are still available."

The Illinois decision leaves the National Labor Relations board in a somewhat awkward position. The board has ordered the reinstatement of the very men who engaged in the sit-down strike and said that this was proper, irrespective of whether any state laws were violated, for the reason that the employer had violated the Wagner act in refusing to bargain collectively, an unfair labor practice under federal law.

As this correspondent pointed out when the labor board ruling was handed down, the employer had a right to refuse to reinstate persons guilty of violating state laws and that anybody who violates a state law could not constitutionally invoke the protection of a federal law to evade responsibility. The labor board would have fared better in the court of public opinion if, in this type of case, it had manifested its strong disapproval of tactics of violence or trespass and had recognized complete state jurisdiction.

For, otherwise, the employers who are seeking to put police powers in the Wagner act covering employee coercion or acts of violence against other persons, whether employees or employers, would have the strongest kind of an argument for amendment and the federal police power would have to be almost as big as it was under the Eighteenth amendment when concurrent jurisdiction was attempted in enforcing prohibition laws. Teachers Forecast Gain in Number of Grade School Pupils

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison—The Wisconsin Education association, organization of Wisconsin public school teachers, has denied the common prediction that elementary schools in the future will be without children to educate.

Its statement pointed to the fact that the number of children born in Wisconsin has increased every year since 1933—the depression year in births as well as in business—so that the number of children starting in elementary schools in 1940 will be above the number now enrolled.

The association predicted that when the total number of births for 1937 is compiled, an increase of 6 per cent over the record of four years ago will be shown.

"The decline of the elementary enrollment during the past few years has caused concern in educational planning," the group said. "However, the decline in the early grades will cease in 1940 with the advent of the children born in 1934 into the schools and the lower grade enrollment is certain to increase each year for four years."

Lawrence Says Congress Relied on State Courts To Protect Property

BY DAVID LAWRENCE Washington—Those who occasionally despair about the functioning of the American system, who lament the abuses of power that legislative and executive agencies sometimes manifest, do not always observe the quiet but effective way in which the courts of the United States, federal and state, apply the law to correctives.

The most notable example of corrective process has been rather generally overlooked, yet its significance is far-reaching. I refer to a decision just handed down by the appellate court of the state of Illinois with relation to sit-down strikes, on the one hand, and a ruling by the National Labor Relations board which to a large extent ignored the violation of state laws by these same strikers.

When the sit-down strikes in Michigan were attracting nationwide attention, most people wondered what had happened to the courts of justice in that state. The general assumption was that a "sit-down" strike was an act of trespass, yet the secretary of labor expressed doubt, and not a few New Dealers thought some peculiar evolution of law might justify seizure of plants by workers. Later on, the secretary accepted the theory that sit-down strikes were unlawful, but the United Automobile Workers of America, in convention assembled, formally adopted a resolution pledging themselves to the continued use of that weapon.

Dr. Hegner Heads Holy Name Union; Adopt Plan To Rotate Conventions

NEW LONDON — Dr. George T. Hegner, Appleton, was elected president of the Holy Name union of the Green Bay diocese at a convention of delegates at the Most Precious Blood church here Sunday afternoon. He succeeds Joseph Duerfler, Kimberly, who presided at yesterday's meeting.

Four sectional vice presidents elected were: Robert Lynch, Green Bay, Section 1; Joseph Weber, Appleton, Section 2; Henry McDaniels, New London, Section 3; George Sladek, Marinette, Section 4.

Alois H. Stoegebauer, Appleton, secretary-treasurer for 10 years, will continue in that office. August Arens, Appleton, was named marshal. Six trustees chosen were: Gustave Keller, St. Appleton, William J. Seider, Green Bay; John VandeLoo, Kaukauna; Pat Dewane, Manitowoc; Grover Stapleton, Sturgeon Bay; Dr. C. J. Klein, Two Rivers.

Next Rally in 1939

The next general rally of the Green Bay diocesan union will be in 1939 at Manitowoc according to a new plan adopted by the convention. Conventions and rallies will be held in a cycle of three years hereafter instead of two, with a new sectional rally scheduled between the delegates' convention and general diocesan rally.

The rally will be rotated among seven of the largest cities in the diocese, repeating every 21 years. In order they are Manitowoc, Stevens Point, Green Bay, Appleton, Oshkosh, Neenah-Menasha and Marinette. The next convention will be held at Chillicothe in 1941.

The plan for sectional rallies was approved by the Right Rev. Paul P. Rhode, bishop of the diocese, and the Rev. Martin H. Vosbeck, diocesan director of the Holy Name union, to foster the spirit of the society closer to home, create wider enthusiasm and solidify diocesan action.

Sectional Rally

Responsibility for the sectional activities lies with the vice president of each group. Each section will be appropriated up to $100 annually from the diocesan fund to help defray the expenses of the sectional rally, the first of which will be held in 1940.

Sections are arranged by counties as follows: Section 1, Brown County, Kewaunee, Manitowoc; Section 2, Calumet, Outagamie, Winnebago; Section 3, Shawano, Portage, Waupaca, Waushara; Section 4, Florence, Langlade, Marinette, Oconto.

On moral issues the convention adopted a resolution to take immediate action and begin systematic campaign to remove lewd and obscene magazines and literature from the public newsstands. The subscription and distribution of Catholic newspapers and other literature were recommended.

Vosbeck Talks

Reviewing the progress of the Holy Name union and its future, the Rev. Martin Vosbeck, diocesan director, deplored the large amount of morally filthy publications on public newsstands and urged not only their eradication but a youth program as well. He recommended scouting for boys and asked the men to join with the women in promoting the Catholic Youth movement recently organized in the diocese.

The propaganda was denounced and plans made to inform members and the general public of the so-called "racket" to prevent the spreading of bigotry. Directors were authorized to set up a program to counteract such propaganda and inaccurate and misleading statements charged against the general press.

More than 400 men attended the convention with 260 registered delegates from 96 society units.

Mrs. Wiecker's Stylish Russian Wolfhound Best Of Dogs in City's Show

By DON ANDERSON
Sandra Romanoff, a graceful, high-brow Russian wolfhound who has won laurels in big-time competition, was the classiest of more than 250 canines entered in Appleton's third annual dog show held yesterday afternoon at Pierce park under the sponsorship of the Izaak Walton League.

Her owner, Mrs. Walter Wiecker, route 2, Appleton, was awarded the best of show trophy by Mayor John Goodland, Jr., along about supper time after judges Frank Fadner and Otis Hayes of Neenah thoughtfully scrutinized the six finalists. Sandra's exquisite poise and good manners, along with her physical beauty, make her a standout in dogdom. She is unquestionably a lady.

Second best dog at the show was Arthur Wakeman's Great Dane, a handsome animal whose 135 pounds stamped him as one of the day's muscle men. Mrs. Elvira Rademacher's striking, pure-white English bull terrier won third prize.

All Barks of Life
Snoopy dogs with long pedigrees rubbed shoulders and exchanged sniffs with pleasant-faced mutts, belligerent little bull terriers offered to take on all comers, and tiny Pomeranians with soprano barks got highly alarmed at the doings—and the big crowd enjoyed every minute of it.

There were no lulls. If something wasn't happening in the judging rings at the moment, there was bound to be an altercation, however quickly subdued, between a couple healthy pooches on the sidelines. Or the crowd's attention would be turned to watching the antics of the Yorkshire terriers or the sleepy bewilderment of two white Collie pups.

Wakeman's Great Dane won first place in the working dogs division, ahead of Bill Catlin's monstrous St. Bernard and Ray Kading's Newfoundland.

Giant of Show
The St. Bernard probably caused the most comment of any dog in the show. His name is Shagmoor and he weighs 200 pounds. "Just a little short of a horse," someone said, "What's his meat bill?" someone else asked.

Shagmoor was, of course, the biggest animal of the afternoon and was officially honored for that distinction. The smallest dog award went to a Pomeranian about the

Chapter One On The Warpath

With undisguised pleasure, Ascy Mayo abandoned himself to a prolonged survey of the new post office. Opened the day before, that post office had played the beautiful which overnight sprouted Quanolet into the headlines, lifting it forever from its unquestioned position as Cap Cod's forgotten hamlet. For twenty years, while others sprang into town, Quanolet had steadily withered and decayed. Finally, when people recalled the place sufficiently to mention it at all, they spoke in tones of deepest condolence. Poor Quanolet, they said, Poor Quanolet, it's Gone to Seed. But Quanolet, thanks to the post office, had sprouted.

Ordinarily Quanolet would have been thrilled to the core by the picture of Ascy rolling along Main Street in his newest streamlined Porter sixteen roadster. But that Friday noon, Ascy was not even noticed. He got only the shortest of nods from the state cop who was helping unsnarl traffic in Depot Square. Reporters, who usually dogged the heels of the man they had popularized as "The Hired Hand de Luxe," "The Hayseed Sherlock," "The Homespun Sleuth"—today they dismissed Ascy with a laudatory wave.

Parking his roadster in the squares' last available slit of space, Ascy joined the crowd milling towards the post office. The building would have inspired unabashed awe in a good sized metropolis. In Quanolet it assumed an aura of complete unreality.

For the most part the structure was red brick, but here and there, whimsical areas of concrete had been introduced. The front pillars were dazzling chromium, the steps pink granite, the windows were strangely barred casements. A self-conscious placard announced that the architecture was Early Colonial Modified.

"Modification my eye!" Ascy murmured. "It's out an' out repeal. Wow"

GRAND CHUTE defeated Becker's Tavern of Appleton, 9 to 7, in a Fox River Valley league tilt at Spencer street diamond Sunday afternoon. It was the first circuit contest for both squads. The tavern team held the lead until the eighth and ninth innings when the Chutes pushed over five runs.

Grand Chute jumped out in the first frame with three runs on two hits, a walk, fielder's choice and an error. Appleton came back in its half with six runs on five hits and a couple of walks to take a 3-run lead. Things were quiet until the fourth when Grand Chute scored again and Appleton counted in the fifth.

Noffke hurled for Grand Chute and allowed eight hits while striking out nine and walking two. He started at the plate with three hits in five opportunities. Buster Brown worked for the losers and was nipped for 12 hits. He walked three men and struck out three.

Kaukauna—A five run rally in the second inning capped by Oma Gast's home run with one on gave the Kaukauna entry in the Fox River Valley league a lead which Little Chute could not overcome, the Kaws going on to an 8 to 5 victory in the season's opener here yesterday afternoon.

Opening day ceremonies included a parade through town led by the Little Chute band, with John Vandevant of the village throwing the first ball to Theodore Oudenhoven, president of the Electric City brewery, sponsor of the Kaw team.

The big Kaukauna inning overcame a one run deficit, with Vandevant of Little Chute who reached first on an error, coming home when Vic Rohan lost Van Dyke's fly in the sun, in the first of the second.

Chutes Get Three
The Chutes tallied three times in their half of the third but could add only one more marker in the seventh while the Kaws scratched away at Wildenberg for runs in the fifth, sixth and eighth.

Gib Busse doubled off the right field fence to start the Kaw second, and Ray Diederick sent him home with a similar smack to left. Hammen threw wide to first on Bloch's grounder, the Kaw catcher reaching base safely and Diederick taking third, from where he romped home when Schuler's pet to catch Bloch off first was wild.

Johnson's looper over short scored Bloch, Johnson taking second on the throw in and third on a passed ball. After Bill Alger and Cliff Vanoverhoven fanned Gast sent one over the centerfield fence for the fourth and fifth counters. Wildenberg relieved Schuler and struck out Rohan.

Lucassen and Hammen singled and Van Wymeren doubled, Lucassen scoring, to open Little Chute's third. After Hartjes walked.

Badger Varsity Beats Yearlings In Practice Tilt

Stuhldreher Pleased With Gridders in Final Game Of Spring Season

MADISON —(AP)—The Wisconsin varsity held the upper hand in the final game of the spring football season, and emerged victorious over the freshmen, 28-0, Saturday at Camp Randall field.

The game officially closed grid drills until this fall, when the regular season gets under way. Coach Harry Stuhldreher was pleased with the performance of both clubs. He said he was especially satisfied with the fine ball handling, despite a wet field, which made the pigskin slippery and uneasy to handle. In summing up the spring drills, Stuhldreher said:

"Today's game was a fitting close to a fine practice season. The difference between the two teams was experience. I am both pleased and satisfied with this year's drill."

After a 68 yard drive down the field, the varsity scored its first score on an end sweep by Tony Gradinski, halfback. Bill Garrott, gigantic tackle, kicked the extra point.

A few minutes before the half ended, Karl Schuelke, fullback, raced around end and flipped a lateral pass to Jack Doyle, center, who raced for the second tally. Garrott again converted, leaving the half-time score 14-0.

Immediately after the intermission, Bill Schmitt, halfback, grabbed a frosh punt, and with some intricate side-stepping and fine blocking, raced 70 yards for the third marker. Bob Eckl, tackle, made the conversion.

With a few minutes left in the game, the varsity passed into scoring territory, and Vince Cibik, halfback, skirted end from the 1 yard line for the final six points. Garrott again booted the extra point.

Vince Gavre, quarterback, Bob Weigandt, end; Cibik, Gradinski, Garrott and Schmitt were best for the varsity. Fegerstrom, tackle; Gage, quarterback; and Lorenz, end, played sensational ball for the yearlings.

Marston Wins Event At Riverview Course

R. H. Marston flew his plane from Newark across the country and reached Indianapolis on the return trip to win the "Cross Country Air Race" at Riverview Country club on Saturday. In this tournament one hop was given for each par, two for a birdie, three for an eagle and nine for a hole in one. Handicaps were used.

Some of the players struggling against the wind were lost in the mountains, but four players—H. C. Rothchild, Dr. A. E. Rector, John Fumal and John Hubling—were only one hop behind the winner and set their planes down at St. Louis to tie for second place and win part of the prize money offered.

Ross Denies He'll Quit After Armstrong Fracas

BY EDDIE BRIETZ
ROSSIGER'S LAKE, N. Y. —(AP)—This is one of those old time, friendly training camps. The beautiful spot where Barney Ross is prepping for Henry Armstrong reminds you of Loch Sheldrake, near here where Jimmy Braddock got ready to win the title from Ewer of Grand Beach, Mich., where Jim prepared for his losing battle with Joe Louis and of beautiful Saratoga where Jack Dempsey was a regular at old Tom Luther's place.

Here the larch string is out. State troopers do not patrol the front of the pretty cottage where Ross spends most of his time when not on the road or in the ring. Newspaper men, their telegraphers and almost everyone else is free to come and go, any time. Quite different from the Schmeling camps where Bax buried himself far away from the center of things except for the 10 minutes he grants the press after each work-out, and of some of the other camps this writer has visited.

Barney Ross laughs off reports from Chicago that he'll quit after this bout, win, lose or draw. "I'm just beginning to make real money," he says. "First thing after knocking out Mann, Tony Gento visited Jim Braddock's place. A waiter passed around a tray of beer. Our hero took two and downed them in four gulps. At luncheon here yesterday, Colonel D. Walker Wear of the state boxing commission, was approached by a well-to-do appearing citizen who asked the colonel to get him six seats for Ross and Ambers. 'You mean Ross and Armstrong, don't you?' asked Wear. 'Ross and Ambers haven't been matched.' 'Well, if they ever are,' replied Mr. W-T-D-appearing citizen, you get me the ducks'. Wear jotted down his name and address.

Why they raced at last yesterday was more than a lot of sane persons could figure out. The river for all of the 130 miles of the course was so rough even the coast guard patrol boats ducked for shelter. But they raced, and Roberts, who is 41 and operates a modest boat house right next door to the finish line, won.

He came ploughing past the line 3 hours, 55 minutes and 45 seconds after he started, having averaged 33.023 miles an hour for the jolting journey.

Second in the marine marathon was Fred Jacoby of North Bergen, N. J.

100 Delegates of Moose Participate In District Meet

Historical Talk, Initiation Of Candidates Feature Kaukauna Meeting

Kaukauna — Almost 100 representatives from Fox river valley series of the Loyal Order of Moose participated in the Sixth district meeting here yesterday. Business sessions were held in the afternoon at Odd Fellows hall, a banquet at the Grandview hotel and a dance at Odd Fellows hall in the evening.

A class of 15 Kaukauna candidates was initiated at the afternoon meeting. The class was briefly addressed by N. R. Smith, Milwaukee, regional director of the state Moose association, C. M. Deschane, secretary of the Green Bay series; Earl W. Bates, Appleton past secretary; Ernest Cahill, Appleton past president; Al Pasch, Green Bay past secretary, and Emil Somerfield, Fond du Lac dictator.

Adrian E. Gerrits, secretary of the Appleton series, presented Wilmer Parker, Kaukauna, with a past dictator's ring.

At the banquet session Bates urged Moose to attend the state meeting in July at Kenosha, and Smith advocated a district organization on a larger scale.

Prugh Is Speaker

The main speaker was Ben G. Prugh, Kaukauna, manager of the Fox River Navigation company, who talked on the development of the river from early times.

"The Fox river is first mentioned in history in 1634 in the letters of Nicolet," Prugh said. It was not until 1674, however, that Marquette and Joliet actually discovered it, the two explorers traveling as far as what is now Portage, he explained. An important step in its development as a waterway was made in 1846 when congress granted every other section on both sides of the river for three miles back to the territory of Wisconsin, the grant becoming available when Wisconsin entered the union in 1848.

"But money to improve the river came in slowly from the sale of these lands, and after the canal from Green Bay to Kaukauna was completed, capital from the east came in and took over the entire project, the new organization calling itself the Green Bay and Mississippi Canal company. This company then sold the privilege of maintaining navigation to the government, but retained some land and all water power that was not used for navigation."

Millions Spent

The government has spent about ten million dollars on the river, Prugh said, and is constantly rebuilding locks and constructing new concrete dams.

"In 1851 the doom of the great water traffic was sounded. In that year at Fond du Lac ground was broken for a railroad which later became the Chicago and North Western. Water traffic could not compete with rail, and navigation began to decline."

Traffic on the river now averages about 300,000 tons yearly, Prugh stated, adding that no appreciable increase seems probable, and that in his opinion water transportation on the Fox in the not distant future might be a thing of the past.

Propose Early Closing Of Stores In Summer

Kaukauna — Kaukauna business men are being contacted by officers of the Advancement association to secure their assent to closing Kaukauna stores at 5 o'clock daily except Saturday during June, July and August. Cards will be given to merchants who will close, to be placed in their windows. Last year merchants closed at 5 o'clock during July and August. An announcement will be made later by the association as to the sentiment of business men.

National Title Races on Water Carnival Program

Kaukauna—Five national championship races will be among the events on the program of the Veterans of Foreign Wars water carnival here June 11 and 12, it was announced this morning. Arrangements have been completed with the Wisconsin Boating association for races here on both days of the regatta.

The feature race will be for the gold governor's cup which is kept each year at the capitol of the state whose representative wins it. It will be brought from St. Paul, Minn., sometime this week and placed on display in Kaukauna. Other trophies to be awarded also will be displayed. Governor LaFollette or his representative will be here to award the cup June 12.

Racers from nineteen states are on the entry list for the governor's cup so far with more expected every day. States which competed for the trophy last year and will again have racers here are New Jersey, Massachusetts, Virginia, Minnesota, Indiana, Michigan, New York, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, Washington, Ohio, Texas, Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa, Arkansas, California, Maine and Connecticut.

Large advertising posters for the regatta have been received by the veterans and will be posted in the city and this part of the state this week. They also will be carried on the booster parade June 4 through the Fox river valley to advertise the water carnival.

Council Debate Looms on Health Officer Proposal

Commissioner Advocates May Oppose Recommendation of Committees

Kaukauna — Council committees which met last Tuesday will recommend to the council tomorrow night that the city health officer be appointed by the mayor and council and his salary be set by the board of health.

Some council members have indicated, however, that they will oppose, not the source of appointment or salary, but the system itself, and will ask for the supplanting of the health officer by a health commissioner. Present at Tuesday's meeting were Alderman Otto Ludke and T. L. Seggelink of the ordinance committee, Frank Fernal, Raymond Nagel and Ludke of the public health and education committee, Dr. C. D. Boyd, present health officer, according to Wis-Andrews, city attorney.

Advocates of the health commissioner plan point out that under the health officer system the health officer may be anyone, and does not have to be a licensed physician. A change in the setup would be much more than a change in words, as a health commissioner, in general, more power and independence of action than a health officer according to Wisconsin statutes under which either may be created by cities under general charter.

Contract Bridge Party Held at Clintonville

Clintonville — Fifteen members of the Clintonville unit of the American Legion auxiliary attended a convention of the Eighth district at Marion. The local delegation included Mesdames W. T. Lucke, J. H. Stein, S. J. Tillson, S. H. Sanford, A. W. Chamberlin, John Ewer, Robert Braun, Gilbert Felschow, Kenneth Darling, Gilbert Buckee, Carl Buelow, F. C. Walch, Louis Fandry, Robert Geffs and Eric Peterson. Auxiliary members were present from Wausau, Stratford, Marshfield, Marion, New London and other places in this district.

Mrs. O. C. Eberhardt and Mrs. Charles Bockhaus were hostesses at five tables of contract bridge Friday afternoon at the Ward hotel. The games were followed by the serving of a luncheon. The prizes were won by Mrs. James Devine, Mrs. Donald Russell, Mrs. W. L. Gould and Mrs. Julius Spearbraker.

Fourteen tables of cards were in play Friday evening at a party held at the Masonic temple. High prizes at each table of bridge went to S. H. Sanford, Edgar Voelz, A. L. Merrill, Mesdames Harry Isaacson, T. A. Patterson, W. H. Schultz, John Ewer and Henry Schellien. Those receiving prizes for high scores at each table of schafkopf were M. L. Rand, Charles Bennett, George Hughes, LeRoy Hughes, Henry Schellien and Chester Kasien.

Mrs. G. M. Goodrick returned Thursday evening from Washington, D. C., where she had spent the winter with her daughter, Mrs. George Reynolds, and family. En route home, she visited several weeks with relatives in Tiffin, Ohio, and stopped in Milwaukee with the Misses Mamie and Gertrude Hughes, former Clintonville residents.

Kaukauna Men Will Go To Union Party Session

Kaukauna — Arthur Hoolihan, George Van Hoot and William Vanevenhoven will leave Friday for Wausau to attend the state convention of the Union party Saturday and Sunday. Van Hoot and Vanevenhoven are delegates while Hoolihan is chairman of the petition committee and a member of the organization committee.

A full slate of state candidates will be named at the meeting. A slate for Outagamie county offices will be announced soon, according to Hoolihan, who heads the Outagamie county group.

one of the chomium pillars. "What's that artist wastin' his time on federal pictures for? With a sense of humor like that, he'd ought to be sellin' things over the radio. My I'd like to meet him."

The girl looked at him quizzically. "I don't think," she remarked, "that you would. Not unless you've changed a lot since I knew you. You see, the artist has no sense of humor. Not a whit."

"Go on!" Asey didn't believe her. "He don't!"

"He's Jack Lorne, my brother-in-law," she said, "and it pains me to say I speak the truth about him. After the tumult and the shouting die, come over to the house some day, and I'll take you over to their place and introduce you. That is, if you'll promise not to hurl any very large. Most people want to."

"What house do I get you from?" Asey's eyes twinkled.

Pamela Frye

"You mean, who am I anyway? Oh, Asey, I'm so crushed! I was so sure you recognized me. I live in Octagon House."

"Octagon House?" Asey said. "The old eight sided Sparrow place — why, I ain't thought about that in years. That makes you Pamela Frye, an' you mustn't hold my not rememberin' against me. It ain't often that a spindly little shrimp like you was, Pam, grows into such a nice lookin' young lady as you are. Sure I remember you now. I taught you to sail a boat."

"It's still the thing I do best."

"An' you used to drive me crazy," Asey said "always wantin' to go ashore to hunt for ambergis. Morning, noon an' night, you combed the shore for ambergis."

"And I still do," Pam Frye said. "I still do, in spite of what everybody, including my excellent and talented sister, says. Look, come over in a few days and I'll show you Jack Lorne and the bewitching Marina. Don't look so puzzled, you knew her too. She was plain Mary Hosannah Frye in those days, but she's turned out to be the bewitching Marina Lorne. You'll recognize her. She's that, quite, beautiful tawny creature, unquote, that lives in the tobacco ads."

"A model, huh?" Asey asked.

"Yes, she's the figure of Peace, inside in the mural. I'm one of those weary wenchers next the kettle, but happily no one's recognized me yet."

"You model, too?" Asey, whose curiosity rarely got the better of him, unashamedly pumped. The girls interested him. Somehow he got the impression that she lived in Quamomet all the year round, but he could not imagine what possible charm or opportunity the place held for her.

"Oh, I do most anything to earn money," she told him with complete candor. "In a nice way, of course, I've done any number of things for Peg Boone's stuff. I'm ladies with dishpan hands, and gray sheets—Heavens, it's nearly one o'clock I've got to dash."

"Wait a second," Asey said with sudden inspiration. "If you still like sailin', why not come back to Wellfleet with me, an' help me try out this new craft of mine that's just been delivered?"

"The new Mary B? Oh, Asey, I saw her Monday, in the creek. She's a beauty! I'd love to go. But I've got this new crop of boarders to feed—"

"Of boarders? Whose boarders?"

"Father and I and Octagon House," Pam said, "we have boarders, with stewed prunes for breakfast. Our first two — boarders, Asey, not prunes! They came today, and it behooves me to put my best foot forward. They're very nice—more decent than most, and father can't be trusted to cope with a whole meal. He's absent minded. Look, will you ask me sailing next week, when Quamomet's back to normal? Is that a date? And in return, I'll display the Mighty Jack and the Bewitching Marina."

"Wide Open"

As she paused to light a cigarette, it suddenly occurred to Asey that never in all his life had he heard such hatred as Pam's quiet voice held while speaking of her sister and brother-in-law.

"I'll even show you," she went on, "Father's collection of odd and curious clocks, and — oh, look at those tourists eating their filthy lunches in the old cemetery! What horrid people! I suppose it's what comes of headlines."

"The headlines won't last," Asey assured her.

"You don't know the half of it. This town is torn wide open. Quamomet's in upheaval."

"What's it upheaven' about?" Asey inquired. "The new P. O.?"

"That, and the mural, and Jack Lorne. They never did want the post office, they loathed the thought of the mural, and they've cordially disliked Jack for the five years he's been here. And in the mural he's been unwise and misguided enough to caricature half the town."

"Come to think of it—"

"Yes, you go gape again," Pam said, "and you'll see why fifty per cent of Quamomet itches to tar and feather Jack Lorne, and why the other fifty per cent is convinced that tarring and feathering is far too good for him. What's going to happen when they finally come to their senses and begin to realize that Jack hasn't the brains to be that malicious all by himself, without outside inspiration?"

"Who prompted him?" Asey knew the answer even before he asked the question.

"Three guesses," Pam said tartly. "Thank heaven, the town likes Father even though they secretly think he's slightly daft, and I play the church organ and help run the Women's Club, so I'm reasonably safe. But what's going to happen to the rest of the family, I can't bear to think. Quamomet's aroused for the first time since I've known the place. It's on the warpath. And some of the mutterings are downright ugly. And if these headlines keep up—"

"They won't Asey said. But she did.
